ATHLETICS TAKE FOURTH OF WORLD SERIES TODAY MAKING THREE TO ONE

CHASE DEMAREE TO THE TIMBER

Man Who Leads National League in Pitching Average Clouted for Four Runs

MARQUARD FILLS THE BREACH

Mackmen Fall on Hero of Last Year for Two Runs in His First Inning

BY HAL SHERIDAN
SHIBE PARK, PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10.—Connie Mack's Athletics got another clincher on their hopes of the 1913 world's championship today. They drew their third victory from the Giants by a score of 5 to 0. As a result, the Giants will be forced to take two in a row in order to tie the series, a seeming impossible stunt. McGraw was unable to duplicate Mack's stunt of yesterday by making good with a young pitcher, Demaree, sent to the mound by McGraw as an easy victim of the Athletic willow welders and was chased from the mound at the end of the fourth after the Mackmen had clouted him up for seven hits, good for four runs. Marquard, who succeeded, was also a victim of the Athletic stick work during the first inning he worked, and a base on balls, followed by a double and a single, added two more runs to the Athletic string and gave them the one extra run needed to put the game on ice.

Marquard Settles

During the next three rounds Marquard was at his best and having gotten warmed up held his opponents helpless for the remainder of the season.

Entering the seventh with but two long singles to their credit against the slab work of Bender, the Giants solved the Indian's delivery and after Burns and Murray had landed on the sacks via the single route, Fred Merkle, the hoodooed Giant first sacker, slugged a long hit into deep left which bounded into the bleachers for a home run, the Giants' first round trip slam of the series. In the eighth with their confidence restored and the knowledge that Bender was weakening, the top of the Giants' batting order went after the Indian. Herzog connected with a single for his first safety of the series. Bender straddled and Doyle forced Herzog, only to be forced himself by Fletcher. Burns, however, got one in a groove and rapped out a double which scored Fletcher. Shaffer, with two strikeouts and a weak pop to his credit, laced a triple into deep right near the foul line, scoring Burns. With but a single needed to tie up the game, Murray was unable to deliver and was thrown out at first by Collins. Cranford was sent to bat for Wilson in the ninth but Bender, who had asked to be allowed to finish, retired the three Giants in order. It was a grand exhibition of nerve by the Indian, who, despite the fact that he had weakened, was there with sufficient headwork to prevent the rascals which the Giants tried desperately to start.

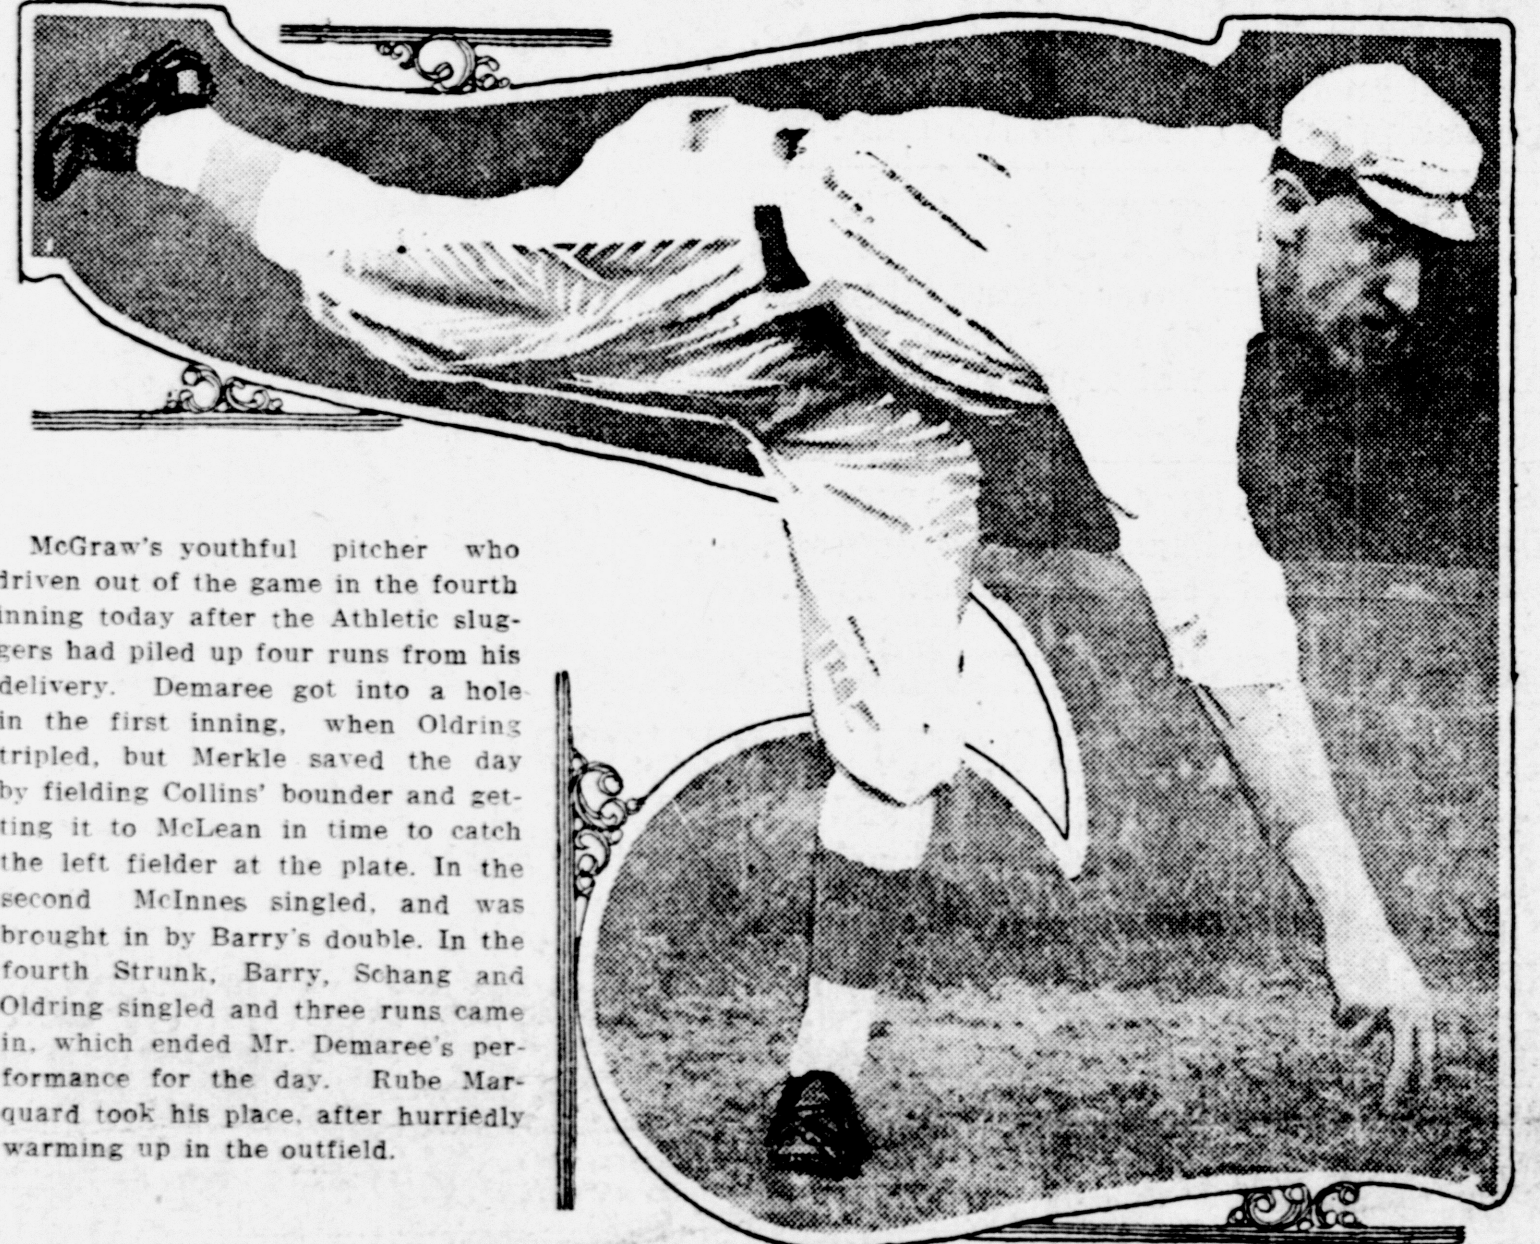

It was a game rally put up by the visitors but it came too late and was not sufficiently aggressive to meet the efforts of the determined Indian fighting a last stand for the Athletics. The breaks in the luck were against the Giants and the post mortems would doubtless be that one run which was enough to win for the Athletics, scored by them in the second inning was due solely to the crippled condition of McGraw's men.

First Inning

Giants—Snodgrass up. Strike one called. Snodgrass popped to Baker. Doyle up. Ball one, wide. Strike two, fouled, ball two, high. Doyle fouled out to Strunk. Fletcher up. Fletcher out, Barry to McInnes. It was a tame tap. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Bender disposed of the side on seven pitched balls, making a more suspicious start than in the opening game.

"STEAMER AL" DEMAREE WHO WAS CHASED FROM THE MOUND UNDER SHOWER OF HITS

MRS. ELLEN HIXON DIES AT HER HOME HERE TODAY

PIONEER RESIDENT CALLED BY DEATH

End Comes at 2 O'clock This Afternoon with All of Her Five Sons at Bedside

CAME TO LA CROSSE IN 1859

Was Widow of Late G. C. Hixon and Did Much for Charity Here; End Comes Peacefully

Mrs. Ellen Hixon, aged 78 years, widow of the late G. C. Hixon, died at her home, Seventh and Badger streets, at 2 o'clock this afternoon as the result of an illness that has made her an invalid for the past two years.

At the time of her death, which has been momentarily expected for the last two days, members of the immediate family were at her bedside and the end came peacefully. Mrs. Hixon's maiden name was Ellen Jane Pennell. She was born at Honeoye, New York, August 9, 1837 and was one of a family of children and of whom A. R. Pennell of Honeoye, N. Y.; Mrs. C. P. Sprague, Portland, Ore.; and Mrs. Isabelle Stephens, of Atchison, Kans., survive. Her father was a wealthy farmer and her childhood was spent on a farm. She received her education in the public schools of Honeoye and at a young ladies' boarding school. She came to La Crosse to school in 1859 or 1860. Here she met and married the late G. C. Hixon, January 13, 1861. Five children were born, all boys, and all surviving. They are Frank and J. M. Hixon, La Crosse; William L. Hixon, Mankato, Minn.; George C. Hixon, Chicago; and Robert Hixon, Toledo, Ohio. Mr. Hixon died September 23, 1892. Mrs. Hixon went as a bride to her residence, corner Seventh and Badger streets, where her children were born and where she has lived continuously ever since. Mrs. Hixon was a communicant of Christ church. She has been a leader in the social life of the city and active in its charities. She was particularly interested in and generous in her support of the Home of the Friendless and the La Crosse

WHAT THE Y. M. C. A. MEANS TO THE HIGH SCHOOL BOY

"LEAD US NOT INTO TEMPTATION"—The Lord's Prayer.

Fifty high school boys who were members of the local Y. M. C. A. last year have not renewed their memberships; memberships from newly matriculated members of the school are twenty-five short of what might fairly have been expected.

The reason assigned is that since the gymnasium of the Hixon Annex provides ample equipment for physical training, the boys no longer need the "Y."

We believe that a serious mistake is being made, and for the suggestions which we shall make we bespeak the most earnest consideration of parents having boys in the high school.

Parents whose boys are about to drop out of the Y. M. C. A. because they regard the annex as a substitute look at the Y. M. C. A. as only a gymnasium.

The fact is that the gymnasium is merely a portion of the equipment by which the Y. M. C. A. undertakes to do its work. The "gym" builds bodies and minds strong and capable for either good, or evil. It is immaterial whether this building of body and mind is done in the "Y" or in the annex. With the able body and brain as its foundation, the Y. M. C. A. proceeds to build above the merely physical, the spiritual and moral structure of citizenship.

The down-town is the boy's forum. He is going down town—he sure of that.

Where will he go, what will he do, if he has not the Y. M. C. A.? Do not deceive yourself into thinking he is immune from the pitfalls of the city.

Before the new Y. M. C. A. was built, four years ago, the high school boys came down town. They could be found by the dozen in pool rooms and saloons.

After four years of the Y. M. C. A. YOU CAN NOT FIND TWO HIGH SCHOOL BOYS IN SUCH PLACES IN AN ENTIRE EVENING.

The Y. M. C. A. has become their gentlemen's club, and they have come to prefer its wholesome atmosphere to that of the dens of petty vice.

But, if they give up the "Y," THEY WILL COME DOWN TOWN, JUST THE SAME. You can not keep the modern boy out of the area of civic affairs. In teaching him citizenship, you bring him into the "loop district" influence, and you thereby impose upon yourself the duty of having that influence exerted from the right angle and amid the right surroundings.

We say to parents that if these boys give up the Y. M. C. A. they will drift back to other places. That they do not do so now, when the Y. M. C. A. is their rendezvous, is due entirely to the opportunity of that institution, now to be surrendered.

And if you turn your boys loose in the White Way in this FORMATIVE high school period, the pool hall and the saloon will be reflected in their characters.

This is the choice you are making today—you parents: Shall the Y. M. C. A., or the pool hall and the saloon, contribute the down-town influence that must inevitably be an agency in creating the character of that boy whose ideals of life are being shaped in his flexible school age?

CHIEF EXECUTIVE SIGNALS FOR THE HISTORIC BLAST

LAST BARRIER OF CANAL DEMOLISHED

Dike Separating Waters of Atlantic and Pacific Is Blown Up This Afternoon

WILSON'S FINGER SETS OFF BLAST

Push of Button Technically Completes the Great $375,000,000 U. S. Undertaking

PANAMA, Oct. 10.—An electric current, started on its 1,800 mile journey by President Wilson at the white house in Washington at two o'clock, this afternoon, technically completed the Panama canal. The Gamboa dike, the last permanent barrier blocking the union of the seas was blown up, figuratively ending the Herculean task of nine years. The work cost approximately $375,000,000 and required the combined efforts of countless thousands of men. The result of it changes the map of the world and shortens the water routes between east and west variously from five thousand to eight thousand miles.

When the president pressed the little button on his desk, he gave a signal, carried by wire and cable, to Colonel George W. Goethals here, the chief builder of the canal. Colonel Goethals gave another signal and in the presence of a vast throng, giant blasts made the Gamboa dike a thing of memory.

Under the dike were placed 1,227 charges of dynamite. Four hundred charges were exploded at once and the rest were let go later at intervals.

As the great detonation broke the impressive silence, countless tons of earth were thrown high in the air and even as the debris fell, a prolonged cheer arose that was heard from Panama to Colon and for miles into the interior.

The spectacular completion of the canal was witnessed by practically every man, woman and child in the canal zone. Among those who saw the event, besides Colonel Goethals, were Lieutenant George R. Goethals and Mrs. Goethals; Philip Bunau-Varilla, who rode the first of fourteen dredges through Gatun locks yesterday; former Congressman Nicholas Longworth, of Cincinnati, and Mrs. Longworth, daughter of Colonel Roosevelt; Captain Nilson of Raoul Amundsen's Arctic ship, the Fram; all of the division heads, except Colonel D. D. Gaillard, who is ill at Baltimore, and thousands of others.

Still Much to Do

The work of this afternoon, though, only figuratively completed the union of the Atlantic and Pacific. Actually the Gamboa dike was not entirely demolished, and actually the waters of the two seas have mingled for almost two weeks through twenty-four inch pipes under the Gamboa dike. Actually, also, the huge Cucharacha slide of several weeks ago, still blocks the Culebra cut below the Gamboa dike, and it will not be removed for more than a week.

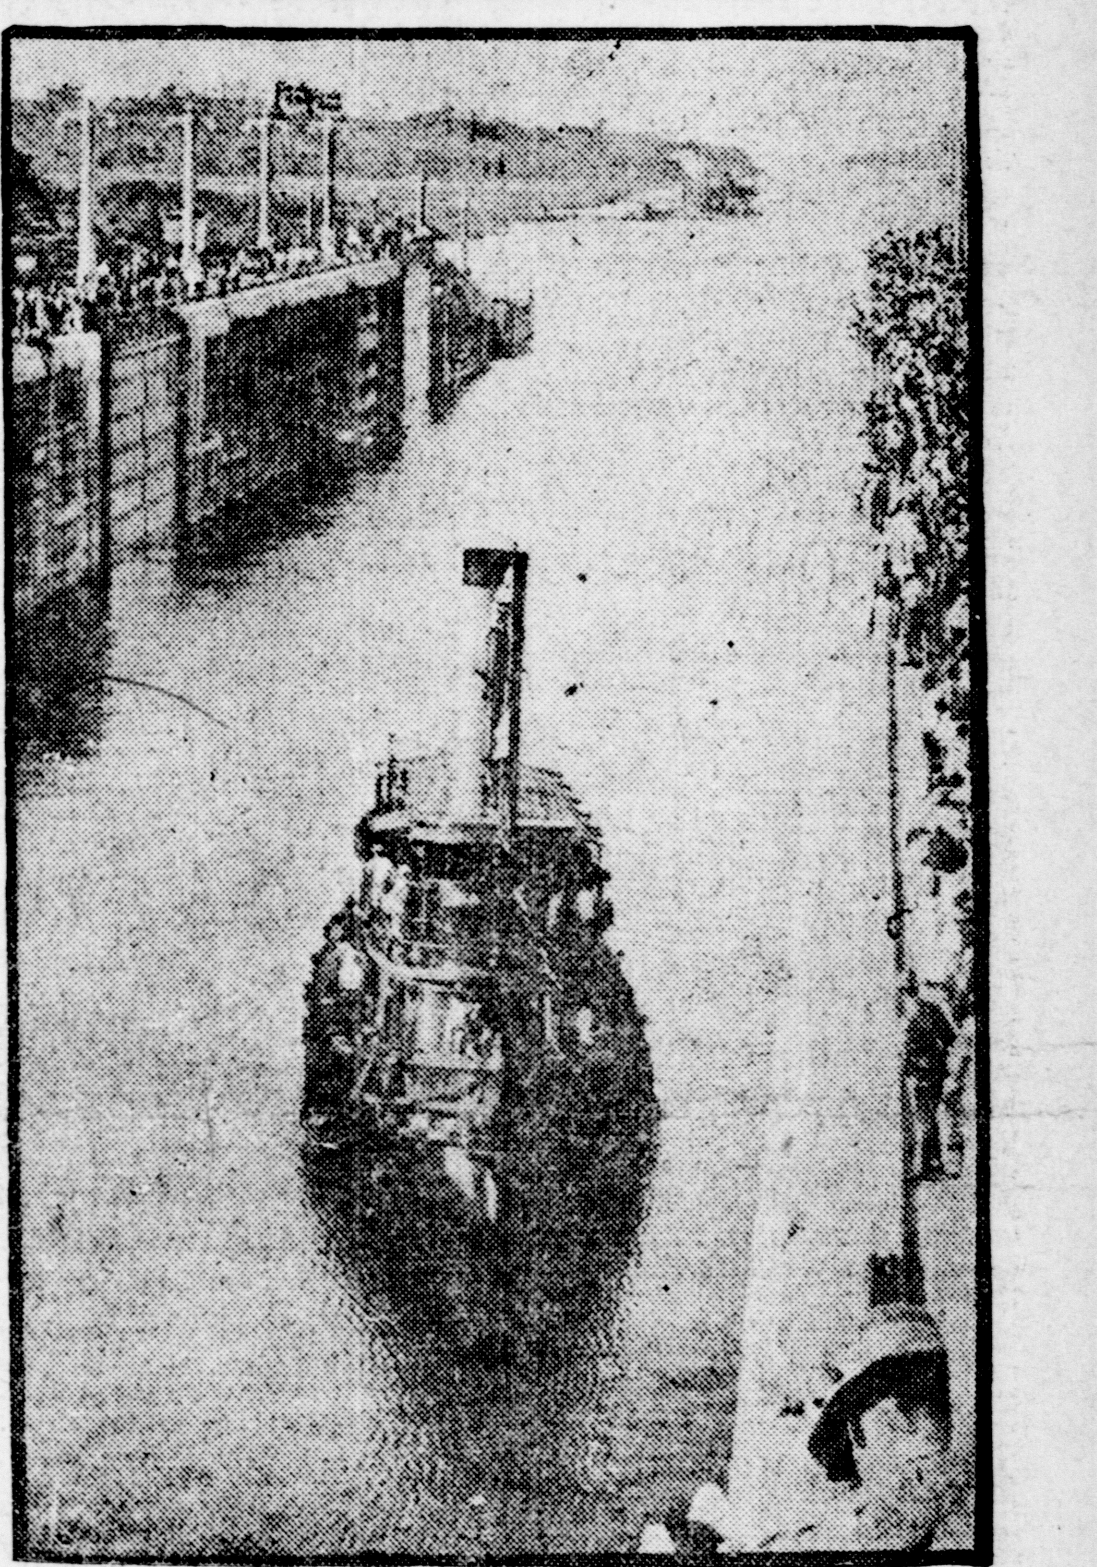

Colonel Goethals had the blasts so placed that the 400 discharged on President Wilson's signal, only blew the top of the dike into the air, making a great picture, but only loosening the barrier. A fleet of dredges was on hand to attack the debris immediately after the dynamite explosion and the loosened earth was carried away. The other charges were to be set off subsequently and the Gamboa dike reduced by easy stages.

Dredges also will attack the Cucharacha slide as soon as the dike is gone, and the removal of that obstruction will actually complete the junction of the Atlantic and Pacific and open the Panama canal.

EVELYN GREETS SON

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—When the liner Lusitania, held outside by fog for two days, docked today, the first person aboard was Evelyn Nesbit Thaw. She rushed to a two year old boy in a man-o'-warman's suit and seized him in her arms. It was "Pom Pom," as Mrs. Thaw's little son, Russell Thaw, is known. The child, whom Mrs. Thaw left in England when she came here to fill vaudeville engagements, was brought over by his nurse.

Tugboat Gatun First Vessel To Pass Through Gatun Locks, Panama Canal

Following the dynamiting that let the water into Culebra Cut today ships will enter this most difficult—the real problem—of the Panama canal. This picture shows the tugboat "Gatun," commanded by Captain F. S. Stewart and carrying a party of notables, in the presence of thousands gathered on either wall of the locks, passing through Gatun locks, from the Atlantic ocean to Gatun lake, after it had been lifted from the sea level to the level of Gatun lake.

SENATOR QUESTIONS WILSON'S STAND

Declares Public Must Not Consider Tariff Bill "Half of the Journey"

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 10.—(Special.)

Senator La Follette, editorializing today, begs the public not to consider the tariff act "half of the journey" in the struggle for industrial and commercial independence. Referring to President Wilson's definition of the victory as the half way mark, with the currency bill as the final step, the Wisconsin senator advises not to take the president's remarks too literally. "He was the commander-in-chief, praising his generals for the results already achieved in the field, overstating the progress made, focusing attention upon the next advance and encouraging them to believe that final victory was right at hand," writes the senator.

"I am bound to believe that President Wilson knows that the enactment of the house currency bill would not be the final step in setting the business of the country free; that, indeed, if it were a perfectly drawn measure for the limited purpose for which it aims, it would be at best but a port of refuge in a storm. It does not deal with the despotic, centralized power which controls the reservoirs created through a combination of the larger banks, and the great life insurance and trust companies, into which the savings of ninety million people drain. No, let us not deceive ourselves. With the new tariff law in force, with even a better emergency currency bill enacted than that which passed the house, this administration will have barely scratched the surface of the great problem, the solution of which will be the final step in setting the business of the country free."

Short Story

THE GREAT MIRROR

By LAURA ADELIA KIRKMAN

(Copyright, 1913, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Professor Mitchell faced the class with his usual severity.

"The subject for the exhibition picture," he announced, "is 'Myself.' Do you understand? Each student is to paint himself."

A murmur of surprise went around the class. Every one turned and stared at his neighbor—every one but Joan. She was looking down at her tightly clasped hands. Her deeply scarred, face was flushed a painful red. She shuddered at the thought of watching her features grow on the canvas—of having the canvas bared for all the world to see.

"We'll start at once," continued the professor, turning to the heap of mirrors on his desk. He arranged the glasses on wire racks.

"We have two weeks to do this in," he went on, when the easels were in position. Then, seeing that Joan was still at the back of the room, he stopped and scowled unpleasantly. "Why haven't you come forward?" he demanded.

Joan felt a deeper tint of red dyeing her face. Without a word she came forward. She was surprised when the professor suddenly stepped to her side and helped her to adjust her easel.

The others, too, were surprised. A rustle of amusement passed over them. Never before had the great man shown even the slightest signs of amiability. Somehow, in him the quality seemed incongruous—unnecessary; for who had a greater right to tyranny than a master? They accepted his habitual irritation as a matter of course, secretly suspecting that he had been disappointed in love.

Joan, therefore, decided that, like the small bully of the street, he had mistaken her inability to speak for the silence of indignation. So amused was she at the idea, that for a time the dread of watching her fire-scarred features on the canvas left her.

But it soon returned. She winced

as she sketched in her blurred contorted lips. Had it not been for the fear of being refused her diploma—and consequently of disappointing her father, who had made so many sacrifices to send her to the city—she would have left the school that instant. Her sole consolation was the thought that she would not be compelled to attend the closing reception at which this picture was to hang.

She experienced the same loathing for the canvas on the following day when she stood before it ready for work. She shrank before it, letting the stick of charcoal drop from her fingers. Then swiftly she bent and picked up the stick, her face flushed from hair to neck. Prof. Mitchell stood in the doorway watching her.

Furiously she fell to work. When the other students arrived she stopped barely long enough to bid them good morning. Her head sank low as the professor drew near on his round of criticism.

"Bad!" he thundered, in his most irritated voice.

Joan drew a sigh of relief. His tone told her that if he had noticed her despair he had forgotten it—that his mind was filled with greater matters than the trials of an underling. For once his savagery seemed grateful to her.

"The entire outline is wrong—change it! Make the mouth wider!" he cried.

"I will," answered Joan meekly. But when he next came around it was still wrong; the mouth was now too wide. She saw her mistake, but had not time to correct it before he was standing behind her.

"Mouth too wide!" he pronounced, severely. "You see it is wrong—look in the glass!"

Shrinkingly Joan lifted her eyes to the mirror. There she met his eyes looking critically down on her features. She sprang up. She stood a moment with clenched hands.

"I'm going—out!" she said, swiftly. She turned and went across the room.

Out in the hall she flew.

"I'll never go back—never! I don't want the diploma!"

When she was closeted in her own small workshop, the indignation which had been pent up for so many hours broke free.

"It's not a fair subject!" she cried to the bare walls. "A painter must idealize—and how can he do that when the model is himself? Even if he were fairly good looking, he couldn't make himself beautiful, and I, with no looks—" She halted before an easel with her eyes riveted unseeing on the blank, white canvass it held.

But soon, as she stood there, her eyes began to see—to see vividly: on the bare canvass before her flashed a picture. She stared, hesitated a moment. Then she snatched up a stick of charcoal,

When, at the end of an hour, she stood back flushed and breathless, a spiritual, full-length figure of herself was outlined on the canvas. Surrounding her head were dim, shadowy faces—faces that were to bear likeness to Raphael, Leonardo, Beethoven, Chopin, Milton, Shakespeare—a host of the highest masters.

"That is I," she cried passionately. "For that is what I would be! I would be there on the summit with the highest; I would be numb to nothing that is useful and beautiful; I would be ranked with those who saw no beauty in the human face but the beauty of aspiration!"

Till dark she worked on the canvass. It consoled her, gave her strength to face the struggle which would come next day when she started back to the school.

She was surprised on the following morning to find that Prof. Mitchell made no mention of her insignificant actions. At the end of his criticism she found courage to tell him that she was sorry for her rudeness.

After this, things went more smoothly. The two weeks slipped by without a touch of the unusual. The secret knowledge that in her own workshop was a real "myself," gave her strength to work on the picture which she considered her mask.

"I won't go near the exhibition," she promised herself. "And I'll tear up the picture as soon as it is returned to me."

So greatly did she dislike to look at the "mask" that on the night before the exhibition she wrapped it up for delivery in the dark. She had brought it home, as most of the students had done, to put on the few last touches. With a great sigh of relief she put it into the hands of the messenger boy.

The other picture—the real "myself"—had been finished days before, and now stood in a corner facing the wall. She had decided to destroy it, as its only excuse for being was the consolation it had given her during the painting of the other picture.

The destroying of it she delayed, however. She wished to forget the past two weeks for a while—to pack, and plan for her return home. A great active future lay before her.

At 9 o'clock on the next evening, when the exhibition room at the school was overflowing with guests, Joan was kneeling happily beside an open trunk.

"Oh—the picture!" she remembered suddenly, jumping to her feet and snatching up a pair of scissors.

As she turned the canvass from the wall, she uttered a cry of horror. She sank limply to the floor; before her lay not the real "Myself," but the mask!

She struggled to her feet. Her head swam dizzily. It seemed incredible, impossible, that she had confused the two. But it made no difference now how it had happened. Not even the thought that she had probably forfeited her diploma, made any difference; her mind was benumbed by a growing shame. She crept to the couch. She sank on it limply. She made no sound, no motion.

Even when a sharp rap came suddenly at the door she did not stir. But after a moment of silence, when the door abruptly opened, she very quickly regained animation. She sat up, sprang up; before her stood Prof. Mitchell.

For an instant her eyes met his. "I know what you've come for!" she cried. "To tell me that I can't have my diploma! But I don't care! I am so ashamed that I can never look you in the face again. I've only just discovered the mistake!"

He made no answer. During the silence he stood motionless as she, Presently out of sheer nervousness she lifted her eyes.

When he had made her look at him squarely he advanced slowly. He held her look. He was close before he spoke. "I knew it was a mistake—a lucky mistake. Do you know that that painting shows that you have in you the making of a great mural artist—that you have the imagination—the symbolism?"

Joan had sprang back. She stood straight, spirited, fired, like the figure in the picture. Her face was swept with the beauty of aspiration. As he looked he almost expected to see shadowy faces appear in the air about her. In that instant his long concealed love for her revealed itself in his eyes.

And Joan, looking back at him, suddenly lost the shrinking sensitiveness which had bound her like a chain all her life. She stood facing him with the joyous confidence of a beautiful woman looking deep,

Daddy's Bedtime

The Rush
Elf's Gift to A Good Boy.

His Mother Helped Him.

ON the edge of the brook in the woods grew some willow trees. Grandpa promised Jack and Evelyn he would show them how to make little baskets.

"We are going to make a nice basket for Dinah," said Evelyn. "That is very kind of you. I once read of a little boy who learned to make baskets. The boy's name was Michel, and he lived in a tiny cottage in faraway Russia," said daddy.

"Michel's mother was a widow and very, very poor. As long as she could she worked for her little boy and his sister Anne. She worked so hard, though, that at last she became ill, and she was able to work no more."

"Then little Michel, who was a strong, clever boy for his age, said to her: 'I know how to plait rushes to make mats and baskets. Plenty of these rushes grow in the marsh. I can make baskets that people will buy from me.'"

"Now, the baskets which he made were very pretty and quite different from any which were shown in the neighboring town where he went to sell them. People paid him a good price for them. He went home and made more and in a short time had many orders for his baskets."

"One evening Michel went to the swamp to get rushes and found that some one else had cut away all these plants and carried them off."

"There was another marsh about a mile farther on, and, although it was getting late, he hurried to it."

"When he reached the marsh he began to cut the rushes, but was stopped by a tiny man in green who wore a cap of plaited rushes."

"This is my marsh. Why are you cutting these rushes?" he asked.

"Then Michel told how he needed them to make baskets to sell, for his sick mother and little sister had no one else to work for them, and this was all he could do to earn money for food."

"For such as you," the little man said, "I have rushes to spare. Take Michel's arms with the finest rushes."

"The boy found the rushes grow heavier and heavier until he could scarcely reach home with them. As he threw them on the floor they jingled. Instead of being green they were yellow, and when his sister picked one up she cried:

"Why, see it is a gold rush!" So it was, and when they looked at the other rushes they found them all to be solid gold. The little man in green had been the king of the marsh elves and had rewarded the boy in this way for his goodness to his mother and sister. They were now rich and needed to work no more."

SLEIGHT O' HAND FOR THE BROOD OF FOLLY

"The (bull) moose" party exists to carry out purposes, not to get office."
Thus the Outlook, of which Colonel Roosevelt is associate editor, interprets recent remarks of the bull moose leader.
Obviously, a party can't "carry out purposes" without first "getting office."
It must be admitted that the rank and file of a new party thinks less of office and more of ends than does an old party, but where the new party's active leadership is made up of lame ducks of older parties, this disinclination can not be attributed to the "bosses."
No doubt our astute colonel expects to get office by pretending not to care about office.
If, in his case, in the far past,
"the office has sought the man,"
the office is to be congratulated upon its persistence and cunning.
Perhaps we shall again hear the immortal words of Jimmy Garfield:
"Ye all did see that . . . I thrice presented him a kingly crown, which he did twice refuse, then snatch at."

Jimmy gave him what he got last time. What he "snatched at" Jimmy couldn't give. What once before he failed to get by pretending not to want, no pretender can have. Barring its "benevolent despotism" the new party doctrine has some well-borrowed merit, but the bull moose will never win a heat without a new jockey.

GAMBLING VS SAVING

Perhaps that philosophy which discredits purely speculative enterprise is nowhere better put than in a recent address by William Jennings Bryan, who said:
"It is not strange that many are charmed by the siren of the stock ticker, but it means ruin, and to the extent that a man yields to the temptation his morals are weakened.
There is but one sure measure of reward, namely, one that compensates each in proportion as he serves society. The securing of something for nothing by a lucky turn of a card or a sudden change in the market, paralyzes one's purpose, and, in time, renders him unfit for patient and persistent effort. I might emphasize the fact that gambling in stocks and farm products often leads to embezzlement, larceny and suicide, for these are the fruits of speculation when it becomes a disease.

But I prefer to put my argument against gambling upon the broader ground that it is, in all cases, a demoralizing influence, whether the gambler wins or loses."

The American Bankers' association, which has not frequently found occasion to coincide with Mr. Bryan, makes the above quotation the text for an argument in favor of savings accounts, concluding with the following:

"The surest 'sure thing' is a savings bank account. It is better to have that to fall back upon than to take chances on something that probably will take away all your resources. There is no thrift in chance."

The logic is unassailable—if incomplete. A man's savings are the foundation of his opportunity. The returns of bank interest, while helping, the accumulation, are insufficient to satisfy the enterprising citizen, but methodical saving prepares one for the time when a solid, safe and substantially remunerative investment shall present itself.

The little savings bank account will outlive the big faro-bank roll.

IMPORTANCE

The announcement in The Tribune last night that the water had been let into Culebra cut, Panama canal, was premature. A "hold for release" caution was overlooked by the editor. Although the fact may be overshadowed by momentous doings in Philadelphia, the culmination of more than three centuries of Isthmi-an canal speculation and building was scheduled for this afternoon when at the touch of a button by President Wilson the program called for a great explosion to let the water into the cut. Ere this is in the hands of the reader Culebra cut will be a path for ocean greyhounds.
But still the big league scout who discovered Bush will turn up his nose at Goethals.

REASON FOR AMERICAN ATHLETIC SUPREMACY

The United States and England have usually been accounted the foremost nations in athletic sports.
Now comes the victory at golf of Francis Ouimet, only 20 years old,
over two veteran English professional champions. The superiority of American over British athletes at the Olympic games still worries John Bull. Evidently Uncle Sam is some sport.

The English temperament is not favorable to the very highest results. There is a greater alertness in the American, that adjusts itself instantly to the critical exigencies of competitive sport. The Englishman thinks more slowly, and does not always see an opportunity until it passes.

Englishmen as a whole take life easy. Perhaps they get more out of it that way. But the man who locks up his office at 4 o'clock is apt to take his athletics in the same leisurely way. The American goes in to win, at either business or sport.

THE CITY OWNS
THE WHITE WAY

The Tribune is informed that the question raised as to the ownership of the White Way is not founded upon a reasonable doubt. The citizens paid for it, and it was accepted by the city council. This makes the leakage a municipal problem. Telephone service is suffering more than other lines, but all are sure to be affected sooner or later. Moreover, under present conditions the efficiency of the White Way is decreased. Relief seems to be imperative.

FOLLOWING THE BAD PRECEDENT

It would be a dreary business reciting the details of the offenses against the public peace and the attacks upon private property by which the English militants have been seeking to demonstrate their fitness for the ballot during the last three months.—The Remonstrance.

Quite so! Mrs. Pankhurst need not complain if the historian shall write her name in the list with those of Washington, Lincoln and other malcontents who disturbed the "public peace" and "attacked private property to demonstrate their fitness for the ballot."

The American investors in Mexico are asking what they shall do next.
If they have any money left, it might seem advisable to invest it within the territory covered by the constitution and laws of the United States.

An army post is proposed for each state, and it is the general opinion that a lot of money would be put into circulation and worthy people given work, if one could be established in every county.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

An Autumn Picture
(In a Wisconsin Frame)
A thousand hills are decked with colors bright,
That gleam and glisten in the warm sunlight.
For forest trees glow with a hundred tints Where'er Old Sol his fervid kiss imprints.
While here and there a dash of vivid green,
And distance, lend enchantment to the scene.

The fields about with grazing herds abound,
While flocks of blackbirds make a joyful sound.
The farmer and his help with ardor toil While gathering in the products of the soil.
All these combine to make a picture rare.
To copy which no human hand may dare.

Two painters only can produce this art,
And each alone must do his sep'rate
part.
Old Jack Frost first, with brush
that's not for man,
Just gives a touch to that which now you scan.
And then Old Sol sends for his slender rays,
And, lo, you see the forest all ablaze.

—The Tramp.

Getting Back

"Why do you insist on trying to sell me beefsteak and beans and buckwheat cakes?" demanded the barber. "I told you all I wanted was two fried eggs."

"Well, I was in your shop yesterday," retorted the restaurant man.
"All I wanted was a shave, but you bulldozed me into a shampoo, a foam fizz and a tonic rub."—Pittsburg Post.

Unwelcome Caller

"Opportunity really knocks at many a door."
"Then, why don't more of us succeed better?"

"The trouble is that opportunity wants us to go to work."

Bound to Have His Joke

"Jokes about the slowness of trains, especially here in the south," says an Atlanta railway man, "also tame a bit by their ancient-ness, but I heard a new and good one not long ago.
"It seems that trains are always slow and far between on a branch line in Mississippi. Nobody knows this better than the people at the junction, except the people on the line itself. One day the newsdealer came to me grinning.
"A fellow from the other end of the line just said a funny thing," he remarked. 'He had just missed his train and there wasn't another for two hours. He came to my stall to buy some reading matter to while away the time. He asked for a joke book, and I didn't have any. Then he poked around for a while and said:
"Well, I guess I'll take a time table instead."'"—Judge.

Good Advice

The waiter rubbed his hands as a stout lady, followed by a family of seven hungry looking boys and girls, entered the restaurant.
The head of the flock looked at the bill of fare, and selected steak
as being fitted to her requirements.
"Steak for you, Reginald?" she inquired of the biggest boy.
"If you please, ma."
"Steak for you, Bertha?"
"Please ma."
"Ah!" she said, when all the seven had fallen in with the steak idea.
"Bring me one nice steak, waiter—and eight plates."

The knight of the serviette gasped.
"Do you hear me," inquired the lady.
"Yes, ma'am," stammered the waiter. "I was only a-thinkin' that if your family sat at the table next the lift and sniffed 'ard they'd get more of a meal!"—London Tit-Bits.

Nerves Control Body

The action and vitality of every muscle and organ are directly responsible to the nerves. They are the life of the body and must be kept up to the mark. If you're listless, sleepless, have neuralgia and headaches, it is a sign of some nervous ailment which can be corrected by taking the genuine nerve feeder.

Warner's Safe Nervine

It acts directly on the nerve centers, allays irritability, and produces restful, healthful sleep. It's a natural nerve strengthener and tonic of approved efficiency when ever the powers of the nervous system are debilitated.
"I was troubled with nervous dyspepsia and dizzy spells; used one bottle of Warner's Safe Nervine and received relief at once."

Pimples Source of Great Danger

May be Means of Absorbing Disease Germs in Most Unexpected Manner.

Make Your Blood Pure and Immune With S. S. S.

In thousands of instances the most virulent types of blood troubles have been the result of coming in contact with disease germs in public places, and the apparently insignificant pimple has been the cause. It spreads with astonishing rapidity, often infecting the entire system in a few days.

It is fortunate, however, that there is a remedy to cope quickly and thoroughly with such a condition, and thanks to the energy of its producers the famous S. S. S.
may now be had at most any drug store
in the civilized world.

This preparation stands alone as a blood purifier. It is somewhat revolutionary in its composition, since it accomplishes all that was ever claimed for mercury, iodides, arsenic, and other destructive mineral drugs, and yet it is absolutely a purely vegetable product. It contains one ingredient which serves the active purpose of stimulating each tiny cellular part of the tissues to the healthy and judicious selection of its own essential nutriment. There are more cases of articular rheumatism, locomotor ataxia, paralysis, neuritis, and similar diseases resultant from the use of minerals than most people are aware of.
These facts are brought out in a highly interesting book compiled by the medical department of The Swift Specific Co., 217 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga. It is mailed free, together with special information, to all who write describing their symptoms.

Get a bottle of S. S. S. today, but be careful not to have something palmed off on you falsely claimed to be "just as good."

IN The WORLD
OF WOMEN

The City Council of Calgary, Canada, has voted to amend the city charter so as to give municipal franchise to all adult men and women, subject to the qualification that every voter must be able to read the second reader now in use in the Alberta schools.

Rev. Daniel Crawford, a Scotch missionary, who has spent twenty-three years in Africa, is quoted as authority for the statement that there is no such thing as a female cannibal; that, although the men eat human flesh, the women never do.

Mabel Stanway Jackson, formerly superintendent of the Waterbury Institute of Craft and Industry for Women and a former resident worker in Doctor Parkhurst's ministry in New York, has been appointed superintendent of the new women's dormitories of the University of Pennsylvania at Philadelphia.

BACK FROM GERMANY

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 10.—N. S.
Dudgeon of the legislative reference library staff is home from a trip to Germany and other European states where with Dr. Charles McCarthy and a party of eastern students of economics he studied systems of agricultural credit, co-operation, the land problem and other subjects engaging the Wisconsin lawmakers.
Dr. McCarthy left the party to visit Sir Horace Plunkett in Ireland, and both have now started for America.
Sir Horace to spend some time at Battle Creek, Mich., before going to his ranch in the west. He will probably visit Madison before returning to Ireland in the fall.

HOLD WOMAN DOCTOR

BATAVIA, N. Y., Oct. 10.—Dr.
Alice G. L. Sheridan will be given a preliminary hearing at the court house on the charge of having caused the death in her office, September 25, of Mrs. Arthur J. James.
She was arrested yesterday on first degree manslaughter charge and is out on bail.

City Chemist Hill of Buffalo arrived this morning and will be one of the witnesses at the hearing.
The coroner's autopsy shows that Mrs. James' death was the result of entrance of air into the right side of the heart, which resulted in air finding its way into the venous system.

WILSON DENIES TALES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—President Wilson sent word to the senate yesterday through Senator Thomas of Colorado, declaring "without foundation" printed statements that he neither desired nor expected republican support on the currency bill. Senator La Follette shut out discussion of the matter on the floor
by declaring it was brought up as a "prod" to the banking committee.

THREAT TO STEEL MEN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—Government ownership of armor plate factories, unless their bids for navy armor were satisfactory was the threat used today in a secret conference between Secretary of the Navy Daniels and representatives of the Carnegie, Midvale and Bethlehem Steel companies.

CHAMP CLARK HURT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—With a bad gash on the top of his head, an ugly gash on his cheek and an injured shoulder, Speaker Champ Clark returned to Washington yesterday from Wheeling, W. Va., where he made a political speech Wednesday.
While asleep in his berth at Pittsburg an engine bumped the sleeper, bruising the speaker and other passengers.

A Roman of Extraordinary Distinction

The Marshal

By Mary Raymond Shipman Andrews
Author of The Perfect Tribute, etc.
Copyright, The Bobbs-Merrill Company

All this flashed through his mind
as he gazed pitifully at the sick prisoner, only just out of boyhood, yet with that band of white hair,
the badge of his captivity. In the thick brown thatch of his head. He lay very still now, as if his tossing were all finished, his face turned to the wall; Battista, soft-hearted, cautious, stopped to look at him a moment before going out. As he looked the dark head turned swiftly and the bright big eyes met his with a light not delirious, yet not quite of every-day reason.

"You are good to me, Battista,"
the boy said, "and just now you gave me a great pleasure. It warms me yet to think of it, for, you see,
I thought you were Pietro—my dear
Pietro—the Marquis Zappi."

Battista, breathless, stared, stammered. "Whom—whom did you say, Signor?"

But the prisoner had flashed into reason. The color went out of his face as the tide ebb. "Battista, did I say a name? Battista—you will not betray me—you will not repeat that name? I would never have said it but that I was not quite steady. I must have been out of my head; I have never spoken his name before in this place. Oh, if I should bring danger to him! Battista, for God's sake, you will not repeat that name?"

Battista spoke low, glancing at the heavy iron door of the cell.
"God forbid, Signor," he whispered,
"that I should speak, here in his own castle, the name of my young master."

There was a long silence. The prisoner and his jailer gazed at each other as if saying things beyond words. Then the boy put out his long hot fingers and caught the man's sleeve.

"Battista—is that true? Is it possible?
Do you know—my Pietro?"

"Know him, Signor?" Battista's deep voice was unsteady. "My fathers have served his for eight hundred years." The man was shaking with a loyalty long pent up, but Francis lifted his head, leaned on his elbow, and looked at him thoughtfully.

"But, Battista, I know you now;
he has spoken to me of you; it was your son, the little Battista, who was his body-servant when they were children?"

"Yes, Signor."
"I did not dream of it; I never knew what castle this was; I never dreamed of Castelforte; you would not tell me."

"I could not, Signor. It was for-bidden. It is forbidden. I am risking my life every minute."

"Go, Battista," and Francis pushed him away with weak hands.
"Go quickly—you have been here too long. There might be suspicion.
I could not live if I brought trouble on you."

"It is right so far, Signor," Bat-tista answered. "It is known you are ill; I must care for the sick ones a little. But I had better go now."

With that he slipped to his knees and lifted the feverish hands to his lips. "The friend of my young master," he said simply, but his voice broke on the words. The traditional faithfulness of centuries was strong in Battista; the Zappi had been good masters; one had been cared for and contented always; one was terrified and ground down by these "Austrian swine"; the memory of the old masters, the personality of any one connected with them, was sacred. Battista bowed his head over the hands in his own, then he stood up.

"I shall be back at bedtime, Signor," he said quietly, and was gone.
But Francis had an ally now, and he knew it. The excitement of the thought, the joy of dim possible results buoyed his high-strung temperament like a tonic. He must be, he would be careful beyond words to guard against any danger, any suspicion for Battista, but—There were chances even with that provision. Here was hope. It is necessary, perhaps, to have been five years a prisoner in a cell in an unknown castle in a foreign land to know what the first glimpse of hope may mean.

Instantly, with the hope working in him, he began to get well. Little by little, watching fearfully against the peril of conversations long enough to seem suspicious to eyes always alert, he told Battista of the close friendship of the chateau in France, of the splendid old officer of Napoleon and of his daughter,
the beautiful demoiselle, who was Alix, of the years at school together, the boyish adventures innumerable. Every word Battista drank in; he had not seen the young marquis since he had left Castelforte with his father on the journey which took them to Vicques. When,
at the end of his school-days, the boy of eighteen had come back to his country, the castle had already been seized by the Austrians, and it had not been safe for Pietro to come into his own country. But the man's memory of his little lord was vivid and loving; he listened eagerly to the least detail of his unknown older life.

And day by day the prisoner who could tell him such things, who was the friend of his master, became more of an idol to him, stood to him more and more in the place of the marquis. From the beginning of the imprisonment he had had an affection for this young stranger; few people ever came under the influence of Francis without having an affection for him; but the day of his mention of Pietro had made Battista his slave.

than Battista had fallen under the spell of Francis' personality. The governor himself had been attracted by the young Frenchman. The governor, Count von Gersdorf, was a vain, discontented, brilliant Austrian at odds with the world because he had not risen further in it. He was without society in this mountain fortress of his, and longed for it; he had a fine voice

Francis, with his ready friendliness, trove of amusement to the bored Austrian.

The Doctor's Advice
by Dr. Lewis Baker
The questions answered below are general in character; the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers should apply to any case of similar nature.
Those wishing further advice,
free, may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Building, College-Ellwood streets, Dayton, Ohio, enclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given, but only initials or fictitious name will be used in my answers.
The prescriptions can be filled at any well stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesaler.

"Mason" writes: "For years I have been taking medicine to cure constipation, liver trouble and the usual diseases that come from that source. Headaches, sallow skin, kidney trouble, dark spots before my eyes, dizzy spells and twinges of rheumatism are getting worse."
Answer: Take three grain sulphur tablets (not sulphur). They are packed in sealed tubes with directions and are convenient, effective and highly curative for such ailments as arise from chronic constipation. If you are dyspeptic, also take tablets, triopiptine.

"MRS. A. D."—Incontinence of urine can be controlled by using the following: Tincture cubeba 1 dram;
tincture rhus aromatic, 2 drams and comp. fluid balmwort 1 oz. Give from 10 to 15 drops in water one hour before meals.

"OMA W." writes: "I have suffered with catarrh of the head for many years. This has become so bad that it has affected my blood, also my stomach and bowels to a very great extent. I shall appreciate an immediate answer as I suffer greatly."
Answer: I would advise you to purchase 2 oz. package of Vilane powder; take one-half teaspoonful of the powder and add to this a pint of warm water, snuff the water from the palm of the hand through the nostrils several times a day. Make a catarrh balm by mixing one teaspoonful of powder with one ounce of vaseline, or lard will do, and apply as far up the nostrils as possible. For the stomach, bowels and blood I would recommend the following tonic: Syrup sarsaparilla comp., 4 ozs.; comp. fluid balmwort,
1 oz., and 1 oz. of fluid ext. buchu.
Mix by shaking well in a bottle and take one teaspoonful after each meal and at bed time.

"Gloria" writes: "I would like you to prescribe a good hair and scalp treatment. I am bothered with itching scalp and dandruff. My hair is faded and falling and none of the remedies I have tried have done any permanent good."
Answer: Go to your druggist and obtain a 4 oz. jar of plain yellow Minylol. Apply as per directions. This

Suggestions for the Younger Contingent

BY MAY MANTON

FASHIONS for the little folk are exceedingly apt to follow in the wake of those designs for their elders. This season we have a very great variety. Children will wear extremely long waisted frocks, frocks in Empire style and frocks with belt or sash arranged at the natural waist line, just as suits the special child and pleases the individual mother. Houses are kept so warm in these days that within doors all the pretty summer fabrics are worn throughout the year. Dresses are seldom cut high in the neck and sleeves correctly can be made of any desired length. There is only one law to be laid down and that is the law of simplicity. Fashionable mothers have sent forth the decree that simple styles are the only desirable ones for the younger children. Since good sense and the desire for healthful conditions make the same demand, fashionable frocks are all made of pretty, dainty materials but without fuss or elaboration.

WHITE is always the prettiest of all things for the tiny folk but, charming as it is, colored dresses will be needed for many occasions and the gingham, piqués, poplins and linens offered for winter wear are exceedingly beautiful. For such occasions as require wool, French serge is much liked, challis is greatly in vogue and the pretty albatross and cashmere never should be overlooked. Such materials can be washed well, they are found in exceedingly beautiful colors and they seem especially adapted to childhood's needs.

FOR really hard wear for the morning hours when the child is left free to play to its heart's content, rompers and aprons make the most satisfactory garments. Rompers are pretty and attractive and at the same time serve well every purpose of the frock while infinitely more practical since they cover and protect the underclothing. Galatea is a favorite material for their making but a great many mothers find chambrays and gingham quite heavy enough. White galatea trimmed with embroidery makes rompers sufficiently dressy in effect to be worn at almost any hour and a great many children are very fascinating when so clothed.

The frocks designed for afternoon wear frequently are made from the pretty little flowered materials as well as from plain ones and often from fine flouncings and bordered materials, which will be shown in unusual attractiveness. Bordered material of any sort makes its own finish and, as a matter of course, reduces the labor of making.

EMBROIDERY and simple lace seem the natural trimmings for children's frocks. Machine embroidery has been so greatly improved in the last year or two that it is difficult to distinguish many of the finer ones from hand work. This is a season of trimmings and the variety makes it easy to find something adapted to any material.

RIBBONS are being extensively used both as trimming and as sashes, and ribbons this year are beautiful enough to study from the standpoint of design and color quite as well as from that of use. For children, the simpler ones are of course to be preferred and Persian colors or some little Dresden design are preferred to more elaborate sorts but it seems impossible to speak of ribbons without recalling the actual splendor that they represent. Roman ribbons with their bright stripes are rich in effect and childlike in one. They make beautiful sashes for wear with white frocks and they have the great advantage of being durable as well as handsome. Even the plainest frock becomes dressy when worn with one of these and with hair ribbon to match and they really are not of excessive cost when their durability is taken into account. There is a real touch of Orientalism in the coloring of the season and, while the feature does not enter into childish fashions to any great extent, it does influence the colors of sashes and the brightness of the hues chosen. It is really a season of ribbons and all sorts of pretty little rosettes and bows are used as finish for dressy frocks.

THE HOME
DRESSMAKER
WILL HAVE NO
DIFFICULTY
IN MAKING UP
THESE PRETTY
PRACTICAL
FOR THE CHILDREN.

APRONS might well be regarded as real necessities of the child's wardrobe. They genuinely protect and do good service and, if they are carefully made and well chosen, they are pretty. Just now we are giving so much attention to the cultivation of the household arts, aprons of the kind are of especial value. The girl who is taught to slip into her apron whenever she enters the kitchen is the girl who will grow up to be a tidy housewife. In the group of aprons is shown a complete cooking outfit and any girl who is interested in learning the making of dainties will find it a pleasure as well as of practical use. Children like a sense of importance and the putting on of a different garment rather emphasizes the dignity. Gingham, percales and lawns make pretty materials for the practical apron and it is a good idea to choose colors with care that they may be becoming and to finish them daintily. A little fancy stitching is very pretty and does not mean much labor and relieves the garment of any sense of plainness or ugliness; in fact, ugliness should never be allowed any place in a child's wardrobe. We do not aim to encourage too great a love of dress or to inculcate any love of frivolity but it is never too early to instill the thought of neatness and charm. The apron that is made of pretty material with dainty finish will be worn with pleasure whereas the plain one selected only for its usefulness will be quite likely to represent a difficult task in place of an honorable employment.

THERE is a great tendency toward the wearing of white stockings with all frocks but, as a matter of fact, they are pretty only with white or those that are light in color and with white shoes or those that have white tops. With high black shoes, black stockings make the better effect. The little strap slippers of black leather are pretty with white socks but anything so heavy looking as a high black shoe seems to create the demand for hose in matching color. White, too, is only acceptable when spotless and winter weather is apt to mean more or less mud and dust and, for out doors, black shoes and stockings are apt to be preferred with every day costumes at least.

HAND embroidery, too, is fashionable and even a little of handwork often gives a touch of distinction. The perfectly plain little dress that is finished with scalloped edges and a little embroidery on the front, then worn with a ribbon sash, makes an exceedingly attractive and dainty effect and embroidery of such kind means very little labor, certainly not more than women commonly expend on far less useful objects. Even the boys' blouses are scalloped and some of them are embroidered and little girls' dresses are rendered extremely charming by such treatment. All white is always pretty but, in a great many cases, color is used on white and white is used on color. The linens of the season are extremely handsome and soft in finish and, consequently, they render the work easy. For such materials heavy threads are chosen and they fill up so rapidly that an effect can be obtained by scarcely appreciable expenditure of time. On the finer, thinner fabrics, both eyelet embroidery and the raised French work are liked. When one thinks of the many hours frequently given over to fancy work that serves no important purpose, the amount of time required for the embroidery on children's frocks seems trivial. Handwork upon a child's frock always gives such a dainty finish that it is thoroughly worth while. The simplest scalloped edge is prettier than any applied edge and scallops are the easiest things in the world to make.

MANUFACTURERS have done so much in offering us even the very simplest, least expensive fabrics in beautiful colors and designs that it really is easier to make pretty garments than ugly ones and present styles seem so delightfully childlike in effect that there is every condition to contribute to a wardrobe satisfactory both to the wearer and the mother without any great expenditure either of time or of money.

NOTED CRUISER DIES

MARINETTE, Wis., Oct. 10.—Injuries received when he was tipped from a buggy at Wausaukee caused the death on Thursday of John Helmer, aged 67, a widely known Marinette cruiser. Deceased was a brother of William J. Helmer, assistant chief of Marinette police.

BLACKFACE ACT FEATURE PROGRAM

Bob Harmon and Company in "A Welsh Rarebit Dream" Headline of Bill

"A Welsh Rarebit Dream," presented by Bob Harmon and company features the good five act vaudeville bill opening yesterday at the Majestic for the last half of the week. For real fun the act has not been equaled this season. The company consists of two blackface artists, one in the role of a black mammy and the other a roustabout in off hours on a southern plantation. A negro's superstition is brought into play amid roars of laughter when a huge giant figures in the dream. The roustabout winds up the act with an imitation of a negro clog dance.

James and Pryor in a singing and talking skit called "At the Depot," are a roar. James swings from the sentimental to the ridiculous in recitations. His imitations of two school boys in a competition country school "speaking" match evoked laughter that brought him back for several curtains.

The "Kollege Kids," Varin and Varin, in "Football" is a clever variety stunt. The two members of the company perform cleverly on a novel musical instrument and present a dialogue on football. A treat is in store when one hears them tell their experiences in the first game.

Romine, the phenomenal triple voiced singer furnishes entertainment that is out of the ordinary. Four songs are sung, each in an entirely different voice. From the round of applause, the manner in which the voice was played was conceded to be marvelous.

The Carpos Brothers wind up the show with a novel acrobatic stunt. The feature of their number is the balancing of one of the pair on the other's head while one plans the piano and the other a mandolin.

Luck is what enables a man to jump from the frying pan into the fire and put the fire out.

Some men cover their cussedness by saying they are broad minded.

PROPHECY GOOD DEER HUNTING

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 10.—Officials of the state game warden's staff prophesy an abundant supply of deer for the hunting season which opens Nov. 11 and continues twenty days. Deputy Conrad Asmuth, just back from north Wisconsin, brings word of woods full of deer and partidges. Absence of forest fires has tended to increase the wild game. Mr. Asmuth reported that his two brothers on a trip down the Flambeau river from Park Falls to Ladysmith counted 160 deer.

To date this year the game warden's department has issued 55 non-resident game hunting licenses at $25 each, as compared with 48 on the same day last year, and 526 non-resident small game licenses at $10 each, as compared with 498 at the same time last year.

BACKACHE A WARNING YOU SHOULD HEED

It is One of Nature's First Signs of Kidney Troubles, if Neglected, Serious Diseases May Follow

When the kidneys are clogged up and inactive, nature has a way of warning you.

Backache is one of the first symptoms. You may also be troubled with disagreeable, annoying bladder disorders; have attacks of lumbago or rheumatism; become nervous, tired and feel all worn out; puffy swellings show under the eyes or in the feet and ankles; and many other symptoms are noticed. If they are neglected, dropsy, diabetes, or Bright's Disease, which so often prove fatal, may result.

It is not only dangerous, but needless for you to suffer and endure the tortures of these troubles, when a little Croxone now will quickly and surely end all such misery.

There is no more effective remedy known for all such troubles than Croxone, because it reaches the cause. It soaks right into the kidneys, through the walls and linings; cleans out the clogged up pores; neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid and waste matter that lodge in the joints and muscles and cause those terrible rheumatic pains, and makes the kidneys filter and sift the poison out of the blood and drive it from the system.

You will find Croxone different from all other remedies. It is practically impossible to take it without results.

An original package costs but a trifle, and all druggists are authorized to return the purchase price if Croxone should fail in a single case. Three doses a day for a few days is often all that is ever needed to end the worst backache, relieve rheumatic pains, or overcome urinary disorders.

UNIVERSITY GIVEN WORK OF MASTERS

Celebrated Paintings from Remsch Collection Presented by Charles R. Crane

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 10.—At the monthly meeting of the University of Wisconsin board of regents President Charles R. Van Hise made public the fact of a gift to the university of two valuable collections of paintings from the celebrated Reinsch collection of masters.

Sixty of these paintings, representing Flemish, Dutch, Italian and Spanish schools, were purchased from Ambassador Reinsch and presented to the university by Mr. Charles R. Crane, a wealthy citizen of Chicago. Seven representative paintings of the German school were purchased by Colonel William C. Brunder of Milwaukee, publisher of the Germania-Herald. The remainder of the collection, representing Spanish, French and English schools, as well as the other schools mentioned, and numbering eighty paintings, have been left as an indefinite loan to the university by Ambassador Reinsch.

"The university is to be congratulated upon the possession of these paintings," says President Van Hise in his report to the regents. "We now have the beginning of a first-class collection of paintings and with the Adolph Weinman statue of Lincoln we have one first-class example of sculpture. An art nucleus is now established here and it is sure to lead to further good."

HOBOES BATTLE ON FAST TRAIN

MARINETTE, Wis., Oct. 10.—Four hoboos riding the blind baggage of a southbound limited passenger train fought a desperate battle with revolvers between Marinette and Peshtigo on Thursday while the train was traveling sixty miles an hour. When Engineer James Green of Escanaba attempted to interfere one of the hoboos drove him off with a gun. Officers were called to drive the hoboos from the train at Oconto, but they boarded it again as the train left the station. It is not believed any of the hoboos was fatally hurt.

A stirring address was delivered at the meeting last night by Jenkin Lloyd Jones of the Chicago Lincoln Center institute. He took as his subject, "The Good Samaritan." Modern instances of the bible parable of good fellowship were shown. Mr. Jones declared that the parable was intended more to show the fellowship of men than to teach a lesson in charity.

Rev. W. H. Gould of Wausau addressed the meeting on the "Good Fight." Rev. Gould spoke of religious enterprises. He showed how good endeavors and fights along religious lines always called for hard fights.

The Wednesday night gathering, the first of the convention was addressed by C. P. Cary, superintendent of public instruction of Wisconsin and Rabbi I. L. Rypins.

THIRTY MILE GALE CRIPPLES WIRES

Telephone and Telegraph Lines Suffer as Result of Storm that Hits Here at Noon

THE ROOF OFF BIG WAREHOUSE

Arctic Ice & Fuel Company Suffers and Many Places Are Without Electric Lights

A thirty mile gale, accompanied by rain, which has been raging over the entire northwest since noon today hit La Crosse at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon.

Damage was done to local telephone and telegraph lines and the direct wires from Philadelphia, where the world's series baseball games are being played, were crippled this afternoon.

According to meagre information received here the brunt of the storm was borne by Minneapolis, where much damage was done and the city almost entirely cut off from communication with the outside world.

In La Crosse half an inch of rain fell in less than fifteen minutes, flooding the streets, alleys and some basements.

Limbs were blown from trees and the roof was torn from off the Arctic Ice and Fuel company's ice houses on the north side.

The Bell Telephone company this afternoon reported that 11 lines leading from the city were down and that it is impossible to get any outside connections for some time.

Some damage was done to the lines of the La Crosse Gas and Electric company and this afternoon lights were out in many business places.

JAP PREMIER IS DEAD

COUNT TARO KATSURA DIES AND DEATH MAY THROW EMPIRE AGAIN INTO POLITICAL CHAOS

TOKIO, Oct. 10.—Count Taro Katsura, three times premier of Japan, died today.

The death of Katsura is apt to throw Japan into another political chaos. As premier, he headed the government party which has of late become very unpopular with the masses. The agitators against the ruling party made capital out of the California alien land law with which to assail Katsura and their misrepresentations became popular with the people. Count Shigenobu Okuma is regarded as Katsura's probable successor.

Count Katsura was born in 1847. He was premier from 1901 to 1906 and again became premier in 1908. He resigned a second time. When a cabinet crisis arose in 1903 several statesmen declined to take the post and Katsura was again chosen to form a ministry. From the outset his administration was a stormy one. He was sick for several months.

Two years ago, when commercial interests threatened the destruction of the historic Grand Dad bluff, Mrs. Hixon purchased it and presented it to the city.

For the past few years Mrs. Hixon has been an invalid but has borne her ills with fortitude and has kept up her friendships and her interest in public and private affairs.

Mrs. Hixon, before her last illness, was an extensive traveler and made several trips to Europe. No arrangements for the funeral have been made. They will be announced later.

STRUCK BY TRAIN DIES AT HOSPITAL

Martin Lottes, veteran section foreman of the Southern Minnesota division, died at 11:45 this morning at the Lutheran hospital. The gasoline driven motor car which Lottes was driving was struck last Tuesday by a fast moving freight train. Lottes was hurled through the air for several feet. He sustained a broken leg, scalp wounds and other bodily injuries. He was rushed to this city, where physicians at the hospital did all in their power to save his life. Lottes is one of the best known railroad men on the Minnesota branch of the railroad. Funeral announcement will be made later.

THE BIG FOUR

Merkle, who threw to McLean. Merkle leaped high and made a sensational catch of a bad bound. Baker up. Collins stole second, fooling Demaree, who threw to first while Collins was under full speed to second. Merkle's throw was too late to catch the runner. Baker up. Baker fouled out to Shafer. No runs, one hit, no errors.

The Athletics started in to repeat yesterday's early lead when Oldring caught one in the middle of the plate for a triple down the foul line. Demaree steadied, however, and the rally was squelched when Oldring was nipped at the plate.

Second Inning
Giants—Burns up. Strike one called; strike two called. Burns out to Murphy, the latter making an easy catch. Shafer up. Ball one, wide. Strike one. Strike two, swung. Strike three. Shafer fanned. Bender fouling him completely and drawing three wild swings. Murray up. Ball one, high; strike one, called. Murray was hit on the funnybone and he was given his base. McLean up. Strike one, called. Ball one. McLean singled. Murray going to third on the throw-in from right center. Merkle up. Ball one, high. Merkle fouled out to McInnes. No runs, one hit, no errors.

A promising little rally by the Giants fizzled out in the second stanza. McInnes made a desperate and successful try on Merkle's clout, capturing the ball as it went over the field.

Athletics—McInnes singled to left center. Snodgrass made a desperate but successful effort to get under the Texas leaguer. Strunk sacrificed. Demaree to Merkle, rolling the ball slowly toward the pitcher's box. Merkle got his hands on a high foul by Barry but dropped it and drew an error for the bobble. Barry doubled, scoring McInnes. The smash was a hard drive down the left foul line. Schang walked. Demaree declined to take a chance on yesterday's home run star. Bender out, on a long fly to Burns. Barry held on second. Murphy fled out to Snodgrass. One run, two hits, one error.

The crippled condition of the Giants threatened to put Demaree in a hole in the second when as a result of Snodgrass' inability to sprint, McInnes scratched a hit. A moment later Barry got a life when Merkle limped painfully after what should have been an easy foul out, and got under it so late that he dropped the ball.

Third Inning
New York—Demaree flied to Murphy on the first ball pitched. Snodgrass up. He went out. Bender to McInnes on a bunt. The Charlie Horse obviously slowed up the Giant outfielder and even a slide failed to save him. Doyle flied out to Strunk. No runs, no hits, no errors. The Giants tried for the first ball in the third inning but the Indian had something on his delivery and disposed of the Giants in order. At the end of the inning it was so obvious that Snodgrass was not in form that McGraw pulled him out, sent Shafer to center and put Herzog on third.

Athletics—Oldring out. Demaree to Merkle on an easy tap to the box. Collins flied out to Burns, who made a beautiful running catch. Baker out, Doyle to Merkle. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Demaree was working a slow

curve alternated with a fast one to good advantage and was never in trouble in this session with the heavy hitters up.

Fourth Inning
Giants—Fletcher flied to Collins. Burns popped to Baker on the first ball pitched. Shafer fanned, swinging a foot under Bender's last one. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Bender was in great form in this session. He wore a smile, measured only by the width of his face. The Giants displayed no such obvious indications of joy.
Athletics—McInnes out, Doyle to Merkle. Larry accepted an easy chance gracefully. Strunk singled. Herzog knocking down a line drive which was too hot to handle. Demaree kept Strunk frozen to first by repeated throws to Merkle. The crowd hissed at the delay. Barry singled and took second on Shafer's throw to third, which proved too late to catch Strunk. Schang singled to center, scoring Strunk and Barry, and took second on the throw into the plate by Murray to catch Barry. Bender up. Schang scored on an error by Merkle, who failed to handle the roller from the Indian's bat. Murphy popped to Doyle, hitting the first ball. Oldring singled to short center. Collins out, McLean to Merkle. Three runs, four hits, one error.

The Athletic sluggers got to Demaree in characteristic fashion during the fourth and slacked up, which in view of Bender's work appeared sufficient to put the game on ice. The young Giant twirler kept his feet on the ground, but the Athletics were simply there with the stick.

Fifth Inning
Giants—Murray up; ball one, wide; ball two, wide; ball three, low; ball four, wide. Murray walked on four straight balls. Bender's first pass of the game. McLean up; strike one called; strike two, fouled; McLean singled through Collins, putting Murray on third. Merkle up. Cooper was put in to run for McLean. Marquard was sent to warm up. Ball one, wide; strike one. Merkle fanned. McCormick batted for Demaree; ball one, ball two, wide; strike one, swung. McCormick out, to Oldring, who captured a hard slam by a long run, making the catch—(At this point the wires went out of commission, owing to the storm which struck the city).

Ninth Inning
Giants—Crandall up. Ball one, low; strike one, called; strike two, called; ball two, wide. Crandall out, Collins to McInnes. Merkle up. Merkle flied out to Murphy. Grant batted for Marquard. Grant up. Strike one, swung; strike two, fouled; ball two, wide; foul; ball three, too low. Grant fouled out to Schang. Game over.

New York rallied too late. Hard hitting in the seventh and eighth failed to overcome the lead and the game ended 6 to 5.

Wedding on Farmers' Day to Typify Union of Farmers and City Folk in Vicinity

JUDGE FARREL IS MUCH PLEASED

La Crescent Farmer Says Event Will Bring People of This Section Closer Together

"The wedding that will take place on the market square at 1 o'clock on Farmers' day will typify the union of the city and the country in this district."

So said Harry Taggart, secretary of the Merchants and Grocers' associations, and a member of the general committee, today.

Mr. Taggart said duplications from couples desiring to be married on the fete day are coming in, and the wedding will take place with due solemnity. He said the happy couple would not be selected until more applications are made, as it was desired to give everybody a chance.

"Letters are coming in from farmers and country towns showing a wide interest in the occasion," concluded Secretary Taggart.

Judge James Farrell of Pine Creek, expressed himself as pleased with the idea of Farmers' day.

"It is good to see La Crosse showing that it knows the farmers are a factor in the affairs of the vicinity," said the Judge. "The more La Crosse shows interest in us the more we will be interested in La Crosse. We have much in common, much to work for together. The more we get together, the better we will understand each other, and the better we will be able to co-operate. By all means, let us have Farmers' days."

OWEN CHALLENGES EXPRESS PROTEST

Declares Their Claim They Lost Money in Wisconsin Is Not Borne Out by Fact

ALLEGES PROFITS OF $82,574

Is Answer to Company's Suit Against Order Lowering Rates in the State

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 10.—(Special.)—That the Wells-Fargo express company received $82,574 in a single year on its Wisconsin business after allowing a reasonable cost, expense, interest and profits is the burden of the answer of Attorney General Walter C. Owen in his answer filed today in the express rate cases. The railroad commission directed an order against the six express companies of the state reducing their rates approximately 20 per cent. All of the companies filed suit against the order and it has been decided to make the Wells-Fargo the test case. Attorney E. S. Mack of Milwaukee is in the complaint of the Wells-Fargo company says the business is operated in Wisconsin at a loss of $60,000 and if the railroad commission's order becomes effective it will lose an additional $300,000.

The answer filed by Attorney General Owen and served on Mr. Mack today contains over one hundred analytical tables of the express earnings in the state, reaching the conclusion that the Wells-Fargo is making excessive profits and that the order of the railroad commission is reasonable and should be permitted to go into effect immediately.

Daily University Bulletin

Of the 6,400 Holstein-Friesian cows and heifers which were officially tested in this country last year, over 800 or more than one-eighth of the entire number were owned by Wisconsin dairymen.

The high rank of this as a dairy state is due in no small part to the part of its progressive dairymen and the various agencies which have encouraged the testing of cows to determine their milk and butter fat producing capabilities and the elimination of animals which under the dependable inspection of the milk and the Babcock test prove unsatisfactory.

The official testing of the Holstein herds of the state is carried on co-operatively by the dairymen owning the cows tested, representatives of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture, and officials of the Holstein-Friesian association of America. The work in Wisconsin was first supervised by the late John W. Decker, who was widely known in the dairy world, and since his death has been carried on by Prof. F. W. Wolf and his assistants. Aided by the official test the dairymen of Wisconsin have been able to win world wide recognition by the breeding and development of cows which have made broken world's records. The long list of record breakers which have been owned in Wisconsin would include Colantha 4th's Johanna, which produced 988.26 pounds butter fat in one year, Caroline Paul Parthena, 888.57 pounds butter fat and Queen Juliana Dirkje 774.51 pounds.

Of the 124 Badger state Holstein breeders and dairymen who officially tested animals in their herds the past year, 16 conducted yearly tests and 39 tested their herds for the first time.

DEFINE NEW LAW

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 10.—The state insurance department has sent to members of school, village and county boards and city councils a circular letter defining the terms of a new law permitting the insurance upon the property of any school district located in an incorporated city or village, or upon the property of any county, city or village, to be carried in the state insurance fund. The rate is 60 per cent of that charged by private companies, and the letter says a saving of 40 per cent is effected. The insurance includes the risks of fire, lightning and tornado. The state makes a rate of one year's insurance, but gives the county, city, village or school district the right to pay four annual premiums in advance for five years' insurance.

IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Take Salts to flush Kidneys and neutralize irritating acids.

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.

JIM HILL TALKS TO THE BANKERS

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 10.—James J. Hill spoke to the American Bankers' association convention here yesterday, urging the importance of conservation and the granting of more agricultural credits by the bankers of the country.

Hill declared that the pending currency bill fails to simplify the currency system and that the proposed federal reserve fund introduces an undesirable political element into the banking system of the country.

BIG INCREASE IN "U" REGISTRATION

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 10.—"Registration for the regular semester is not only the largest but presents the largest increase in the history of the university," reports President Chas. R. Van Hise to the board of regents of the University of Wisconsin in session at Madison. At the close of October 4, 2425 old students had returned to carry out their studies as against 2370 returning in 1912. This percentage of increase in the number of old students returning is highest in the school of music which shows an increase of 19 per cent; next is the department of home economics showing an increase of 18 per cent; and third, the college of agriculture showing an increase of 13 per cent.

On the same day 2007 new students had enrolled as compared with 1639 the enrollment October 4, 1912. This is an increase of 22 per cent of new students. The department of Home Economics shows an increase of 59 per cent; the college of agriculture an increase of 28 per cent; the college of letters and science 22 per cent; the college of engineering 20 per cent; school of music 17 per cent; college of medicine 14 per cent; school of pharmacy 31 per cent. The law school shows a loss of 18 per cent in new students enrolled.

The total enrollment is 4432 as compared with 4009 on the same date in 1912.

AMATEURS AT THE THEATER TONIGHT

Every available seat was sold and many "turned away" at the LaCrosse Theater last night on the return of the Van Dyke & Eaton Co., presenting "Just Plain Molly" in a most pleasing manner.

After the last act of the play to-night any boy or girl, man or woman will have an opportunity of showing their real ability as entertainers. Many of the very best acts on the vaudeville stage, "today" got their first start by appearing on "amateur night." There is no telling just how the "public" is going to take an act until it is "tried out" and it is surely a "whole show" of itself to see the varied lines of talent right here among us.

A matinee performance of "Just Plain Molly" will be given at 2:30 on Saturday afternoon.

Starting Sunday matinee, Lena Rivers" will be the bill.

A Difficult Assignment.

Not long ago a cub reporter on one of the Chicago dailies was assigned by the city editor to cover a meeting of the board of trustees of a public library. "Bring a story of about four hundred words," said the editor.

At a late hour that night, this story not being forthcoming, the youngster was sent for.

"How about that story of the board meeting?" asked the editor.

"It isn't finished yet. You told me to make 400 words of it. So far I have managed to get only 300."

"What did the board do?"

"They met, called the roll and adjourned until Tuesday evening."—Lippincott's Magazine.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You can Bring Back Color and Lustre with Sage Tea and Sulphur

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is messy and troublesome. For 50 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use tonic called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You justampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant. You will also discover dandruff is gone and hair has stopped falling.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur and look years younger. For sale and recommended by O. T. Erhart.

No Wonder She Likes Aunt Mary.
The small daughter in a family where there are a number of brothers and sisters went on a visit to an aunt where there are no children. She was quite carried off her feet by the attention which she received, and when her mother arrived to take her home she was very unwilling to go.

"Why do you want to stay with Aunt Mary?" inquired the mother.
"She curls my hair three times a day," replied the child, "and she dresses me to beat the band!"—Kansas City Star.

Gas on the Stomach
Use Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for This Form of Indigestion

It is a poor treatment for stomach trouble that treats the stomach alone. Back of all your lack of appetite, sourness of stomach, belching of gas, nausea, pains after eating, heaviness and lump-like feeling in the stomach, is bad blood. The food is fermenting in the stomach, only partly digested, because the stomach is weak.

Take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and notice the difference in your condition. You will be able to eat three good meals a day without discomfort. The new blood, which Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make, will restore the stomach to its normal condition, positively strengthen the digestive organs and increase the flow of digestive fluids.

You will also find a great improvement in your general health, and new strength in every nerve and muscle. Do not put off finding relief a single day. Get a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills today and begin the treatment at once.

Up Two Stumps.

Little Johnny was in the habit of wanting more victuals put upon his plate than he could eat. His papa decided to break him of the habit. One day as Johnny insisted upon being served until his plate was well filled his papa said, "Johnny, if I give you this you will have to eat every bit of it or I will punish you." Johnny promised that he would, and bravely did the little fellow try to do so, but in vain. It was too much for him. He would try again and again and then look sorrowfully at his papa. Finally, laying down his fork, he said:

"Papa, if you was me which would you rather do, get a licking or bust?"

"And so they are. But what changed your mind?"

DAVIES TO RETURN BIG DAMAGE SUIT STARTED BY BOY

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 10.—Commissioner of Corporations Joseph E. Davies will return to Wisconsin soon, it is announced, at which time he will take up the matter of removing the office of the collector of internal revenue from Madison to Wausau. The settlement of several political appointments is also scheduled to be discussed. John A. Aylward, law partner of Davies and a democratic leader, denies the report of a split between them over political ambitions. "The story is without any basis," he said. "My relations with Mr. Davies are as they have been for several years."

CROSS, FEVERISH, SICK CHILDREN NEED "CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS"

A coated tongue means sluggish liver and bowels—Listen mother!

Your child isn't naturally cross and peevish. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels need a cleansing at once.

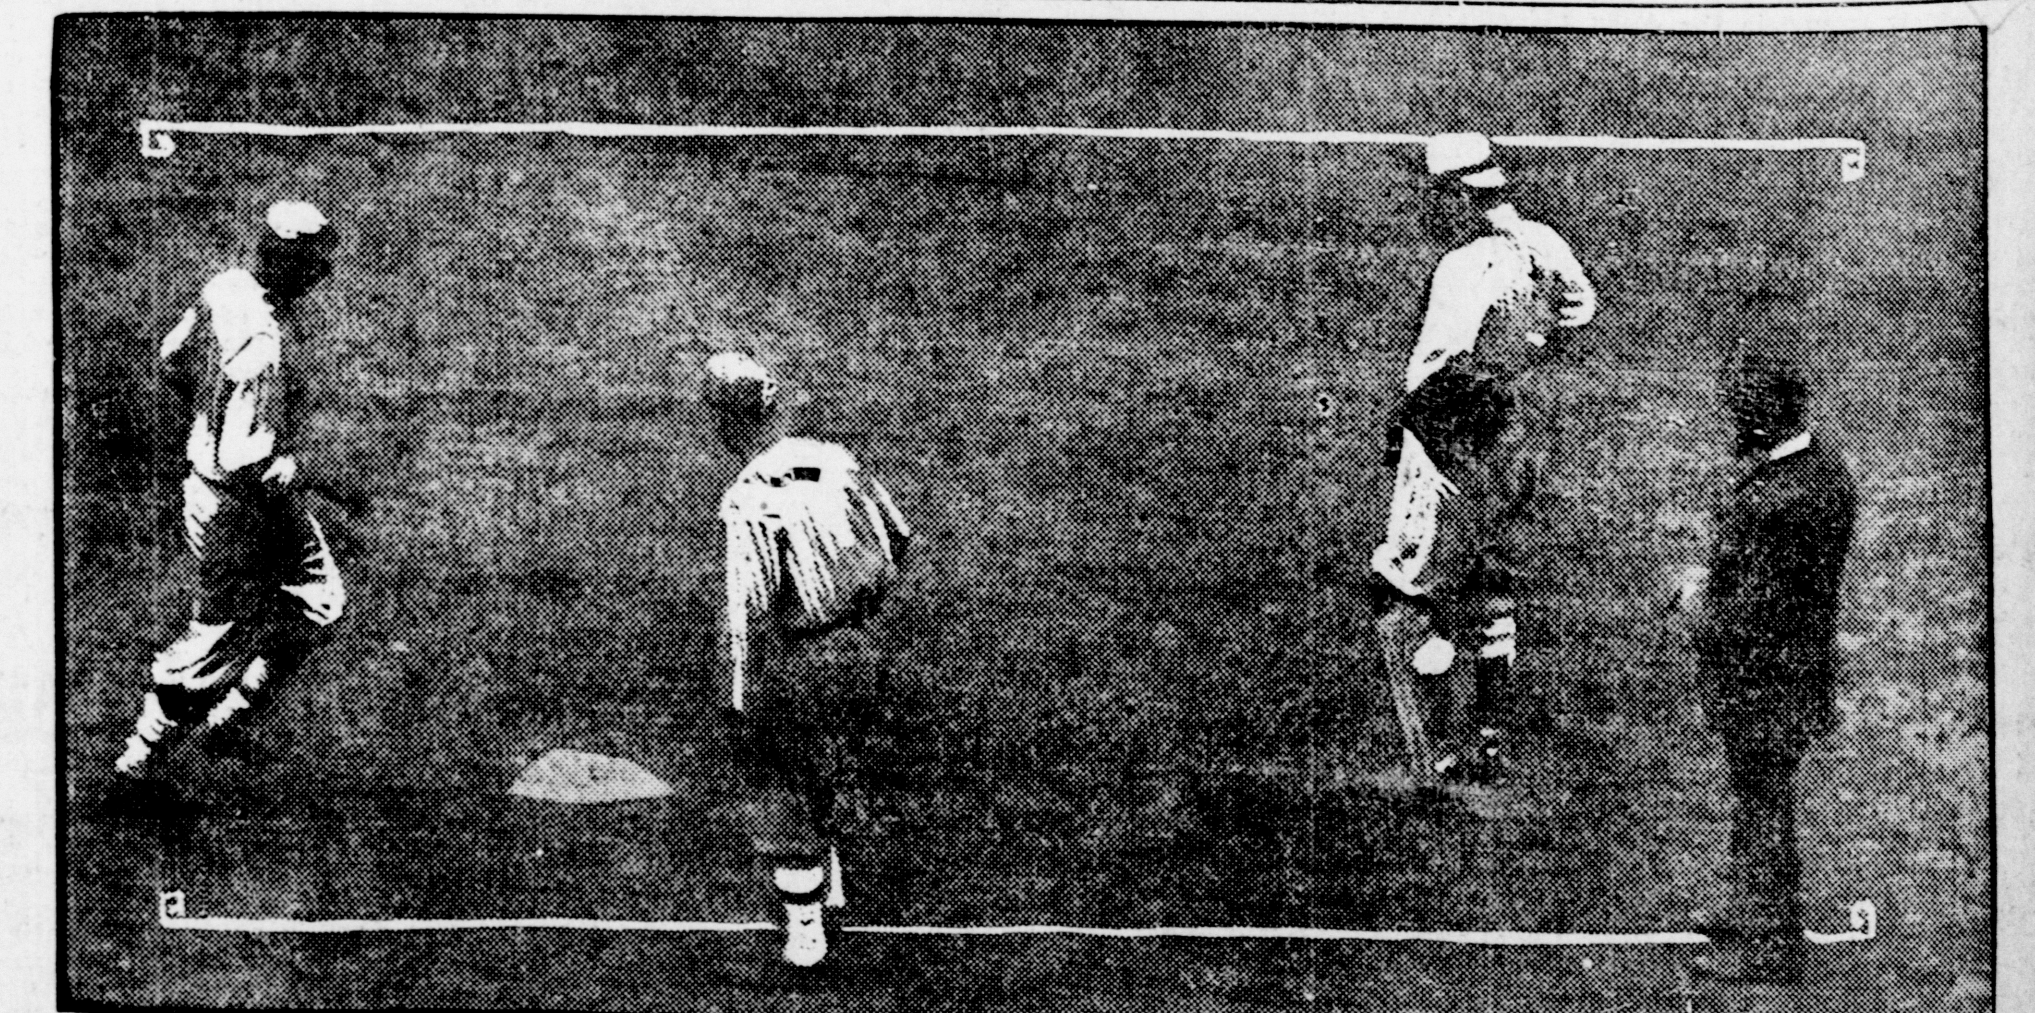

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has sour stomach, diarrhoea, remember a gentle liver and bowel cleansing should always be the first treatment given.

Nothing equals "California Syrup of Figs" for children's ills. Give a teaspoonful and in just a few hours all the foul waste, sour bile and fermenting food, clogged in the bowels, passes out of the system and you have a well and playful child again. All children love this harmless fruit laxative and it never fails to effect a good "inside" cleansing. Directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are plainly on each bottle.

Mother, keep it handy in your home. A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50 cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs." Then look and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." We make no cheaper size. Don't be fooled.

SOUR STOMACH
GAS, INDIGESTION

"Pape's Diapepsin" ends all Stomach distress in five minutes—Time it!

What you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach headache, you get blessed relief in five minutes. Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula, plainly printed on these 25-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will understand why dyspeptic troubles of all kinds must go, and why they relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. "Pape's Diapepsin" is harmless; tastes like candy, though each case will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation. This city will have many "Pape's Diapepsin" cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be enthusiastic about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever take it for indigestion, gases, heartburn, sourness, dyspepsia, or any stomach misery. Get some now, this minute, and rid yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion in five minutes.

PANKHURST WILL ACCEPT MONEY

But She Explains that the Proceeds of American Trip Will Go to the Cause

BY WILLIAM PHILLIP SIMS
(Paris Correspondent of the United Press.)

PARIS, Oct. 9.—Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, preparing to sail next week for New York, today told the United Press that she thinks it proper for her to take money for her American speeches and that she does not believe that Dr. Anna Shaw and other American suffragists seriously criticised her for asking money.

"I cannot believe that Dr. Shaw expressed disapproval of me speaking for money, or that she was correctly quoted as saying she regrets my coming," Mrs. Pankhurst said. "There must be some mistake. I chose this time for an American trip because the British parliament is not sitting and I am fully recovered from the ravages of my dreadful prison experiences."

"I believe that my contact with Americans will encourage both them and me."

"I will not get the money I collect. It will go to the British suffragette cause. In all world movements it is legitimate for one branch to obtain assistance from another. I do not presume to advise the American suffragists. They are doing splendidly. I shall not advise militancy in America. I shall only explain our own fight and our attitude on the social evil questions. Militancy is not necessary in America; in England we could not obtain the ballot without it."

THAT IS, something is wrong with baby, but we can't tell just what it is. All mothers recognize the term by the lassitude, weakness, loss of appetite, inclination to sleep, heavy breathing, and lack of interest shown by baby. These are the symptoms of sickness. It may be fever, congestion, worms, croup, diphtheria, or scarlatina. Do not lose a minute. Give the child Castoria. It will start the digestive organs into operation, open the pores of the skin, carry off the foetid matter, and drive away the threatened sickness.

Genuine Castoria always bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher

BUY A BASE BURNER WHICH WILL GIVE

1/3 MORE HEAT WITH 1/3 LESS FUEL

It is possible for you to obtain a stove that will do this and save more than its cost in fuel during the time it is operated. Stove buyers cannot afford to neglect investigating the features which make it feasible for to accomplish such wonderful results, and we invite everyone to call and let us explain the reasons. Note sectional view. See how cold air is taken from the floor and heated by the central triangular Double Heating Flue which utilizes heat that ordinarily escapes up the chimney flue. Note exceptionally large area of effective radiating surface, also the position and size of firepot and grate and remember that in addition to all this, the heat from the firepot is forced to go down one large back flue to the base, entirely around it and up a second large flue before escaping. Study this plan of construction and you can partially understand why no other stoves will give such great heat with so little fuel.

Jewel Stoves are not an experiment; they have been made and sold for several years and their remarkable efficiency has made them the largest selling base burners manufactured.

EXTREMELY LOW PRICES.

We are offering these stoves at prices no higher than are asked for those which do not possess such exceptional fuel saving and heat producing features.

$40.00, $45.00, $50.00, $55.00, $60.00

According to style and size. Place a Jewel in your home and have the best that money will buy. The exquisite beauty of these stoves must be seen to be appreciated. The nickel takes a polish like silver and large area of mica surface makes them brilliant illuminators.

NEW CORSETS BANE OF THE FAT LADY

Spell Woe to Woman of Heft Because of Shortness Above the Waist

LINGERIE LOOKS LIKE PICNIC

All Splashed Up with Greens and Reds and Blues in Newest Models

BY MARGARET MASON.
(Written for the United Press.)
In days of old the clinging vine was highest type of feminine. And she who was the winning maid Was she who was demurely staid. Today though styles have changed apace Anent the fair sex of the race. Yet still the highest court is paid To her who is correctly "stayed."

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The newest corsets spell woe to the lady of generous embonpoint. Her nearest approach to a fashionable figure will be a swell one. The new models are so low of bust as to come scarcely above the waist line. The fewest possible bones are used and the material of the corset is thin and pliable. To be sure they look as though what has been cut off above the waist line has been tacked on below so far down past the hips do they come, but fortunately insets of elastic in the sides and back make it possible for the wearer to assume a sitting posture and saves her the embarrassment of being forced to take her meals off the mantle piece. The front laced corset is being shown in many models and is a great favorite not only because it is easier to adjust and more comfortable to wear but because it actually tends to reduce a too generously chubby "tummy."

Tricot is the ideal fabric for the flexible corset of 1913 especially for evening wear. Indeed the smart woman whose purse is as well filled as her 26 stays has different corsets adapted for different needs. One of silk tricot lightly boned serves her beautifully for dress and evening wear while a heavier silk brocade boned a trifle more strongly offers her ample support for street wear. Certainly the new stay ought to be here to stay for it is a boon from a hygienic standpoint. The days when we squeezed our waists like a Chinese woman did her feet are relegated to a barbarous past. But while Lena clasps the new

Demonstration of How to Dress the Baby Without Pins or Buttons

PINS and buttons on a baby's garments are criminal! For they are positively, absolutely unnecessary. The wounds and accidents they cause are needless. Learn today how you can get along without them. At the baby's goods departments of any of the stores named, any mother, any nurse, any big sister—any woman interested—may have without cost or obligation, a practical demonstration of the Vanta idea—a way of dressing baby without the use of a pin or button. The invention of Vanta Twistless Tape made possible this new system of baby dressing. For this is a tape that can be washed, and soaked right with the garment without curling, kinking or twisting in the slightest degree. So every fastening can now be a quickly tied, quickly untied, bow of Twistless Tape—that is more convenient for mother or nurse, and so much safer for baby that it is a shame to impose pins or buttons upon any child.

Vanta Baby Garments
—are a revelation to mothers and nurses. In none of them is a single pin or button used—in all of them the fastenings are all in front. Every garment is guaranteed the highest quality made, and money will be refunded if not perfectly satisfactory. Vanta Twistless Tape has not only made possible this better system of baby dressing, but it serves many uses in every woman's wardrobe. For lingerie, corset-covers, petticoats, etc., Vanta Twistless Tape in tints can be used and does not require removal for the wash. It will not curl, twist or kink when wet. 10 yards only 10 cents, at dealers.

stays to her meagre bosom with undoubted bliss. Fatima can but mourn for alas, Fashion's mandate has gone forth that she may not even have a brassiere to sustain her.

Lingerie Inadequate
Lingerie is even more scantily inadequate and bewilderingly colorful than ever. Impressionistic panties and cubist chemises are the order of the day. Underwear designed by Paul Poiret is bound to be original and a bit bizarre and his one piece combination of white linen piped in brilliant tones of cerise, bright blue, purple or orange are most novel and attractive.

The embroidered Italian silk combinations consisting of under vest and knickers continue as favorites of these buxom beauties who wish to do away with all the surplus bulk of excess underwear and the exquisite confections of lace, pink rosebuds and ribbon offered as underbodies make one rejoice that they are not to blush unseen. None of their alluring charms are lost under the all revealing, non-concealing net and chiffon blouses of the moment.

Gaudy Nighties
As for your nighties it never would recognize its little chaste be-ribboned laciness among the weird creations now putting forth gaudy claims as robes de nuit. Here they are guaranteed to evoke most spirited and unbridled nightmares. One is of white linen piped with cerise and purple, another of yellow polka dots in blue, a Nile green in striped mauve and a cream color sprinkled with blue hieroglyphics.

In a recent opening of a French farce the leading actress appeared in a bewitching rose pink crepe de chine combination trimmed in lace, pink rosebuds and tiny rhinestone buckles, a boudoir cap with a bridle and later donned a negligee with a weird tunic a la Minoret.

Another follower of Thespis graced—or disgraced, it's all in the point of view—an opening night with a black gown whose skirt was slit to the knees in front revealing black Turkish trousers of none too generous fallness. Verily a costume designed to take your breath and leave you panting.

GREEK COMES BACK

SOLDIER-STUDENT WILL HURRY ACROSS SEA TO RE-ENTER UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 10.—Peter Anagnos, a former student in the college of agriculture who was summoned to Greece last year at the time of the severest struggle in the Balkan states, is hurrying across the ocean to re-enter the university.

In a letter written to Professor L. B. Jones of the department of plant pathology from Janina, Greece, Mr. Anagnos writes:

"Our task was great indeed in the two wars just finished. After the defeat of the Turks, we had to fight against our sly and fraudulent former allies. We fought them, and the results of our brilliant attacks and victories are known to you. I suppose, from the newspapers, We despised death and gained the victory. I hope our retirement will be finished soon, then I will be in a hurry to cross the ocean for the beginning of the first semester, at least a few days, perhaps a couple of weeks, late. I hope that those days of absence will be considered as days of presence. Let us hope for the present that I will be retired in time.

"To the boys who remember and inquire about me, I am also grateful and send greetings."

Mr. Anagnos is a brother-in-law of Louis Russos, a well known Madison fruit dealer. He entered the university in 1910, coming here from Athens, Greece.

HAD A NICKEL SO HE WASN'T A TRAMP

John Christensen has five cents in his "jeans," so how in the world could he be called a tramp.

This was the burden of his plea to Judge John Brindley yesterday afternoon when tried in county court on a vagrancy charge.

"Doesn't the law say, yer honor," said the defendant, "that a tramp is a man who has no visible means of support? Didn't I have the nickel?"

Thirty-five days was the sentence he drew.

GET FILTHY FARMER

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 10.—State Dairy and Food Commissioner J. Q. Emery says that running a cream separator in a pig pen doesn't go in this state, as evidence of which fact he announced the conviction of Anton Martin of Allenton, Washington county, who was fined $100 and costs for having cream in possession with intent to sell. The cream was separated from the milk with a separator in a pig pen. The defendant barely escaped a jail sentence by Justice of the Peace Tim Foley. The case was brought by E. L. Aderhold, assistant dairy and food commissioner.

CRILE GETS BACK

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 10.—Dennis W. Crile of Chicago, expelled from the State University here last year for publishing the "Black Bird" magazine, which was condemned as offensive, was readmitted by the board of regents today. He will receive no credit for his work in 1912-1913, and will continue on strict probation. Dr. A. J. Ochsenr of Chicago pleaded for Crile's reinstatement.

PLAYS MATADOR SAVES FARMER
WINONA, Minn., Oct. 10.—When Ed Engler, a young man at work on the road in East Burns Valley yesterday, saw Fred Miller, a farmer, tossed into the air on the horns of a bull he leaped upon his wagon, urged his horses into a run, and drove into the field.
Charging upon the infuriated beast, skillfully driving, Engler managed to ram the wagon pole full tilt against the bull's side and ended the attack on the fallen farmer.
Miller, who is 50 years old, was seriously injured, but is expected to recover.

MUST WIDEN PANAMA CANAL TO 600 FEET IN 20 YEARS, SAYS DE LESSEPS ENGINEER

Twenty years from now the Panama canal will have to be widened to 600 feet, since its present width of 110 feet will be inadequate to handle the ship traffic, says Philippe Bunau-Varilla, engineer-in-chief of the canal under Ferdinand de Lesseps from 1884 to 1891.
"The Panama canal, which was thought when projected to be perpetual, is just good enough for the beginning, and should be transformed into the 'straits of Panama,'" said Bunau-Varilla. "This idea of a sea level canal could not be carried out within time and money limits by working on land, but it can be done easily in the course of ten years by the much more powerful and cheaper system of dredging and transporting the refuse on water. The expense will be relatively small."
Bunau-Varilla believes the canal will do big things for the far west. "The country west of the Rocky mountains, after the canal is opened, is slowly but inexorably going to become the Europe of America," he says.

WON'T LET MAGGIE LAND IN TROUSERS
NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Maggie Teyte, the diminutive opera singer arrived today with her much heralded knickerbockers, but when she walked down the gangplank from the Kaiser Wilhelm der Grosse an unsympathetic Hoboken policeman refused to let the diva step ashore until she had donned a skirt.
When Miss Teyte first walked down the gangplank she wore brown knickerbockers, black silk stockings and a mannish brown coat. "Dresses are immodest," said Miss Teyte, "and trousers are not. Soon all women will be wearing trousers."

Price of His Treason.
Benedict Arnold died in London June 14, 1801. His life after his treason was a most unhappy one. He was avoided by men of honor and on many occasions deliberately insulted. He received a considerable sum of money from the British government and made several unsuccessful attempts to engage in business in British America and the West Indies and finally returned to London, where he died in obscurity. His second son, born in 1780, entered the British army in 1798, served with credit in many parts of the world and three years before his death in 1854 was made a lieutenant general.

Rare Works of Art Stolen.
Twenty-five thousand dollars worth of art were stolen from the church of San Mossimo, Padua, Italy, recently. Early in the morning, the thieves broke into the church and carried off two magnificent paintings by Giovanni Battista Tiepolo. The pictures hung in the side chapels on either side of the high altar, and were wrenched from their frames in such a hurry that portions of the canvas were left on the frames.

HUMBER'S DEATH DUE TO DISEASE
Heart Failure Interrupted Career of Bright and Popular Young Business Man of City
Percy Humber, 31, died suddenly at his hotel in Lynxville at 2 p. m. Monday, Sept. 29, of heart failure. Mr. Humber, who was in Lynxville on a business mission, had been indisposed for four days; he arose in the morning of the 29th, but felt worse and returned to his room shortly after noon, after making arrangements for a "speeder" to take him to Prairie du Chien, where he expected to consult a physician. At about 2 o'clock he was found dead.
Percy Humber was born near Winnipeg, Canada, in 1882, and came to La Crosse from Rockford, Ill., eight years ago, as manager of the Marine Credit Clothing company. In 1905 he was united in marriage with Miss Gertrude Kenney, of this city. In 1908 he entered the circulation department of the Leader-Press, and in 1909-10 was associated with The Tribune in the same capacity. At the close of that year he entered the insurance business, and at the time of his death was agent for the Union Sick and Accident, of Oshkosh.

If any desire becomes insatiable—the desire to succeed may become so—there may result the most exhausting emotions. Frequent despair and depression, irritability and unreasonable anger may be frequent with a man who is unduly anxious to attain what he calls success. He will think too much about his mistakes unless some one dares to say to him, or he can say to himself, "Forget it!"

The word Gumbold, when used as a surname, has nothing at all to do with any part of the anatomy. It denotes that its first bearer was a man of considerable importance and great power in the state. It is derived from the Norse word "gumbold," which itself has nothing to do with any affliction, but means "bold in war."

SOPHIS WIN RUSH

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 10.—The sophomores were pronounced the victors in yesterday's class rush, the annual struggle to mark the beginning of class spirit at the state university. With the sound of the pistol, the second year men swooped down upon the fourteen sacks in the middle of the field and gathered in the majority before the freshmen were on the job.
Then ensued the more spectacular part—tearing off shirts. This occupied the students for fifteen minutes, at the end of which the field was strewn with remnants enough to start a bargain sale. Throughout the battle the moving picture camera ground out film.

Potter Wasps at Work.
The family eumenidae, or solitary wasps, contain some curious workers. Some are miners and dig tiny tunnels in the earth; some are carpenters and cut channels in wood and then divide the space into chambers by partitions of mud; some build oval or globelike mud nests on branches or twigs. This home may be partitioned into several tiny rooms, into which are put various small insects captured by the mother wasp and upon which the young wasps feed.

COLLINS SLIDES TO SECOND IN FIFTH INNING

Collins of the Athletics in the fifth inning of the first world's series game got the first free pass from Pitcher Marquard. Then he attempted a steal to second. Before Meyers' throw reached second, Collins, in a spectacular manner, slid safely into that base.

There are so many lies to be told there is no sense in your trying to tell them all.
It takes a pessimist to worry over a job lot of possibilities that never develop.

WOMEN TO HOLD GOSPEL SERVICES

The Caledonia Street Methodist Episcopal church will begin a two weeks' series of evangelistic meetings next Sunday. Two well known and successful evangelists, Miss Caffray of New Jersey, and Miss Pinnell of Oklahoma, are to conduct them and are to be assisted by a large chorus choir. Both of the ladies have a fine musical education and Miss Caffray is a speaker of great ability. Miss Pinnell is very successful in work with young people, and will have charge of the chorus work; they will sing solos and duets at every service and other special music will be arranged. They have been uniformly successful and have held meetings in many of the largest churches.

A Madman's Strange Belief.
An unfortunate maniac was confined in one of the Scottish lunatic asylums, his particular infirmity being an unshakable belief that every day was Christmas day and that he was dining sumptuously on turkey or roast beef and a good slice of plum pudding. His real diet, however, was of the plainest, he being served twice daily with a dish of oatmeal porridge. After daily describing to his attendants the pleasures he had tasted in his cut of turkey or what not he as regularly added, "Yet, somehow or other, everything that I eat tastes of porridge." This story it was which gave rise to the saying, "As palatable as the madman's porridge."

How He Escaped.
"So you've never been spanked, little boy?"
"Naw. Never."
"Isn't that nice? Then you've never given your father and mother cause for annoyance?"
"I've made 'em mad often enough, I guess."
"And they've never whipped you for it?"

"Naw. You see, whenever paw starts in to spank me paw gets mad, an' whenever paw threatens to spank me paw gets mad, an' they have a fierce argument, an' by the time they get over that they've forgotten what it was they were going to spank me for, anyhow."—Detroit Free Press.

His Steady Job.
This happened to a social worker. She had been interested in the case of a needy family. The father had been "sent up" several times for short terms for minor offenses, but was now supposed to be "out" and working at a steady job. One day she thought to inquire.
"I haven't seen your father for some time," she remarked to the eleven-year-old daughter. "What is he doing now?"
"I think he's doin' a year, mum."—New York Post.

HOME MANNERS.

The old saying that people never know one another until they dwell under the same roof is a true one, for nothing so severely tests the disposition as constant intercourse and the wear and tear of everyday life. Hence it is more important to strive to be agreeable at home than to acquire manners that will make us brilliant and popular in our circle of associates, though the two are not at all incomparable.

S. M. CONDUCTOR KILLED IN WRECK

John Cambern Meets Death When Rear End of Train Breaks Away on Fountain Hill

FOUR CARS AND CABOOSE DITCHED

Roll Down Grade at High Speed and Crew Follows in Detached Box Car

John Cambern, aged 55, Austin, Minn., a freight conductor on the Southern Minnesota division of the Milwaukee railroad, was instantly killed at 2 o'clock this morning when four loaded coal cars and the caboose on the rear end of freight train No. 69 uncoupled and raced backwards down the six mile hill a short distance east of Fountain, Minn.

Reports reaching here this morning were to the effect that Cambern, who was in charge of the train, was the only one in the caboose, the rest of the crew being on top of the train, working the hand brakes, preparatory to making the descent down Fountain hill.

Crew is Warned

When the cars on the rear of the train became loose and began their mad run down the hill, the air brake connection was broken, warning the rest of the crew.

The rear freight car was uncoupled and was sent in pursuit of the runaway part of the train. According to the men on the pursuing car, the stub raced down the incline at a pace that was enough to derail them. When they reached the foot of the hill, the four coal cars were found in the ditch, badly broken up, but the caboose was hardly damaged.

Camburn was found lying against one end of the caboose. The right leg was found to be broken and the neck was found to contain a slight scratch. Aside from these injuries nothing was found to cause death. The brakemen are of the opinion that Camburn was killed by being thrown against the wall of the car when the caboose was derailed.

No. 69 was due to leave the north side yards last night at 8:50 but was delayed and did not leave until 11:30. As the train was an extra heavy one, two engines were used. Taylor and Hauser had charge of the front engine, with Low and Arentz in the rear cab. Jargens and Burns were the brakemen.

Dangerous Hill

The Fountain Hill is one of the most dangerous places on the Southern Minnesota division. Several years ago a similar wreck occurred in which several persons were injured.

Conductor Camburn is one of the best known men on the Southern Minnesota branch of the road.

Driving a Bargain.

Old Mr. Beeman was decidedly penurious, but as his premises were becoming overrun with rats he decided to engage a professional rat catcher, when the following conversation took place:

"There, Mr. Beeman," said the rat catcher, "I've cleared your premises of the varmints, and I take 'em all away with me. You'll have no further trouble with rats, I assure you, and you won't have to bother about the dead ones either. I'll put 'em right in this box. The bill is $5."

Mr. Beeman peered anxiously over the rims of his silver rimmed spectacles. "Don't I get anything for the rats?" he inquired.—Denver Republican.

Dogs and Jokes.

Animals present their own aspects of humor, says Leonard Larkin in the London Strand, and the evidence is fully sufficient that some of them have a sense of humor of their own. A jackdaw certainly has, and it is a less malicious sort than that quite as certainly possessed by his cousin, the magpie and the raven; it is more human, in a word. The dog's sense of humor seems to grow blunted after puppyhood, or, rather, it changes, being overlaid by a horror of becoming ridiculous. Nothing in creation can stand a joke against itself so badly as a dog; nothing is so wretched as a dog who thinks he is being laughed at.

Just as She Thought.
"What is his trouble?" "Aphasia."
"I thought there was a woman in the case."—Judge.

Diamond Cutting.

The brilliant is generally considered the finest form of diamond cutting. The top of the brilliant consists of the table—an eight sided facet in the center—surrounded by thirty-two smaller facets, which reach to the girdle, the thin edge separating the crown from the lower part of the stone, called the pavilion. The pavilion has twenty-four facets, terminating in a small facet called the culet. The best stones are cut so that less than one-third of the whole is above the girdle.

Reduced Him.

A London advertising expert was praising in New York the change that has come over the advertisement. "In advertising, as in other things," he said, "it has been found that honesty pays, and today, throughout the world, the successful advertiser is modest and conservative in his statements. Advertising is no longer mistrusted. Things are no longer as they were in Phatt's day. He weighed over 400 pounds. Well, he saw an ad. in the paper—'Fat folks reduced, $5'—and he answered it. 'Did he get any reply?' asked a listener. 'Oh, yes; it was just as advertised.' 'That's good. How much was he reduced?' 'Why, just as the advertisement said—$5.'"

Cruel.

"I'm developing quite a passion for motoring," said Miss Hoamley. "I wonder if it's harmful."
"Quite the contrary," replied Miss Cutting. "I should think it would be very becoming to you."
"How do you mean becoming?"
"Well, you know, dear, you can wear a mask while motoring."—St. Louis Republic.

Just Like All the Rest.

"But, doctor," she said, "I want to raise my baby with all the modern improvements."

Living in New York.

Some people have queer ideas of what it means to live in New York. "I couldn't possibly live elsewhere than in New York," declared one lady. "It is the only town."

"It is a remarkable place," admitted the visitor. "What part of the city do you live in?"

"East Orange, N. J."—Brooklyn Eagle.

FAREWELL PARTY
A delightful farewell surprise party was given Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Hilberth on Avon street for Mrs. Isabel Short, president of the Wilson Colwell W. R. C. and Mabel Byrnes, who leave Friday night for Ellensburg, Wash., to spend the winter months.
Music and recitations furnished the amusement and at five o'clock a delicious lunch was served by the hostess. Thirty-five ladies were present, and their best wishes go with those leaving for a safe and pleasant journey.
YOUNG LADIES' CLASS SOCIAL.
The class of young ladies organized in the Baptist church on Rally day met at the parsonage for their first social last night. Twenty were present. Miss Marie Peterson was the invited guest and the evening was spent in preparing material for her work as school and visiting nurse. Over 800 little "swabs" were made during the evening. This class meets with the Bible school every Sunday for inspiration and hopes to give expression to the teaching during the week in some form of social service. During the evening the class organized with Miss Maude Mulock as president; Helen Peterson, vice president; Ruth Newcomb, secretary; Stella Forbes, treasurer.
Two committees were also appointed, a social committee consisting of Matilda Linse, Ruth Barrett, Stella Forbes, Robena Rae and Ethel Kenyon, and a work committee consisting of Petra Peterson, Mrs. Nelson and Lottie Barrett.
Mrs. Billings served light refreshments after the work of the evening was finished. Next month the class has planned to meet at 6 o'clock for a picnic supper and the whole evening will be spent in social service work.

ROWENA CARD PARTY
The Rowena circle, Brotherhood of American Yeomen, held their regular meeting in Linker hall Tuesday afternoon. Progressive cinch was played and prizes of Haviland china were awarded to Miss Wachemuth and Mesdames Welch, Kohn, Shaffer, Whipple and Lee. It was decided to play 500 at the next meeting which will be held in two weeks.
The Brotherhood of American Yeomen will hold their regular meeting in Linker hall Tuesday evening when a class of fifty ladies and gentlemen will be taken in. The full Yeomen orchestra will be in attendance and will furnish music for dancing after the meeting.
The local Yeomen are again the winners of the state banner, having secured the largest number of members during the past three months.

SILVER WEDDING
Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Gautsch, Fifteenth and La Crosse streets, were surprised yesterday evening at their home by a large number of friends. The event was the couple's silver wedding anniversary.
Supper was enjoyed at the house after which they were invited to Concordia hall, where approximately 200 neighbors had gathered to celebrate the event. Dancing was enjoyed and refreshments served.

BRIDAL SHOWER
Mrs. K. Coffer and Mrs. Fred Sterneman entertained at an alumnum shower at the home of the latter, 324 Mill street, in honor of Miss Ealda Wiggert, an October bride. The rooms were prettily decorated with hearts and cupids. The favors were orange blossom and baskets filled with candy. There were nineteen present.

The exports of salt from the Spanish city of Cadiz average over 227,000 tons a year. The salt is made from evaporated sea water, and usually the winter rains are waited for to purify it before it is sold.

COURTESY.
It has been said that courtesy is to the daily intercourse of life what fragrance is to the flower. It ought to be just as steady, as unconscious, as gently pervasive as that, and it is just as certain to be noticed and appreciated as the rich perfume of a rose or the delicious scent of a lily.

COLLINS AND BAKER ALONE IN CLASS

Grantland Rice Says Game
Has Never Produced
Such Showy Pair of Batters

GIVES GREAT CREDIT TO BUSH

Says He Led the "Cake-walk" Yesterday in Genuine World Series Style

BY GRANTLAND RICE

(Written for the United Press.)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 10.—By this time you may inhale a hazy inference as to what we mean by "the dynamite in Mack's batting order"—viz: Eddie Collins and Franklin Baker. The miracle work of a Matthewson might curb them for one brief afternoon but it was largely the stupendous bulk of their batting eye that caused us several weeks ago to pronounce the Mack men as the most "dangerous ball club that ever waded into a short series."

You can take your Ansons and your Burketts—your Dairymples and your Keelers—your Dechantys, LaJoies and Wagners—your Cobbs and your Jacksons, take their team and compile their batting flesh into one massive lump and then know at the finish that the game has never produced such a world's series, showy batting pair as Mack's two amazing wielders of the glazed and tempered ash.

The Proof

This may stand as a broad assertion but into those who rise to say that we are wrong we hereby fire a broadside of succulent statistics to show exactly where we stand. We are not dealing with opinions here, but with cold, clammy and pallid proof, arrayed from a cluster of facts.

Frank is now in his third world series. He has faced the best pitching Cubs and Giants have had to offer—pennant winning pitching considered above par. And in these three years out of 59 trips to the plate, he has torn off 25 base hits for an average exactly .424.

In the same period Collins has had been at bat 54 times where he has delivered 22 hits for the average of .408. Just let this sink in for a moment as you ponder on the whys and wherefores.

To Be Stopped? Yes!

They had torn things apart in 1910 and 1911. "Now," came the whisper, "They are due to be stopped at last for McGraw has the greatest pitching staff in the game." What ball club can show three better than Matthewson, Marquard and Tesreau on a year's work, but with all they've had, well supported, how abruptly in this series have Baker and Collins been hauled up? Exactly as follows: Baker for the three games is batting .539 and Collins .583. In twenty-five trips to the plate they have harvested a flock of fourteen hits for a combined average of .560. They have scored seven runs and driven over seven more—more than half as many runs as the entire Giant line-up has been able to gather in all three games. Outside of this they have been stopped, checked, curbed and dispersed. Also choked and throttled. To say nothing of halted and subdued.

The Difference

Matthewson alone stopped them because with all his physical stuff, he also carried a master brain. Marquard fell and Tesreau was slaughtered—not because either was shy on stuff but because they were not able to out-guess the Mackmen as Matthewson did.

Here we have a clean-eyed, free swinging club that can murder either speed or curves if it once gets set with a toe-hold. Tesreau never looked to have greater speed, his curves cracked sharply and he failed to issue a pass. But he was pitching to

BAKER FINISHING HOME RUN THAT WON FIRST GAME

"Home Run" Baker, the jinx of the New York Giants, who won two games from the great "Christy" Matthewson in the world's series of 1911, repeated at the Polo Grounds in the first game of the world's series on Tuesday afternoon. His clout of Marquard's curve ball in the fifth inning, into the far corner of the right field grand stand drove Eddie

Collins in ahead of him and gave the Athletics their fourth and fifth runs, which were enough to win. "Any one of the boys could have done it if Marquard had grooved a a free-swinging club set for the wall and where Matthewson with his inborn cunning crossed the line-up with unmatched genius, Ozark Jeff pitched by the program till his hide came off.

Any time a free swinging, slugging club is out-guessed, it looks as helpless as a corpulent turtle rolled upon its quivering back. But woe unto that pitcher, whatever he carries, who guesses in the expected groove. For his hide shall come off in large gory strips and his ears shall throb with the resonant crash of ash meeting leather as base hits explode and fragments strew the field.

Bush and Plank. The day before, we saw Plank, 39 years old, shut out the Giants for nine rounds before he broke. Yesterday we looked upon one twenty years younger than the great southpaw, for Bush hasn't yet slipped by the 19 mark. He will be twenty in November, but he looked yesterday as if he might have started pitching world's series ball two months after he was born. He was almost as cool as Plank—almost as steady—and what is more, he had the God of sport and the game at his side—YOUTH—steel-wired, supple and buoyant, that ate up work and grew stronger as the war progressed and the day slipped by.

Plank fought for five rounds with his arm and for the other five with his heart and soul. Bush was as fast in the ninth round as in the first—but taking no credit from his fine pitching, he had nothing to worry over with a field battery around him driving over runs in clusters of two and three at a clip. Plank had a battle to fight—Bush had a cake-walk to lead—but it must be said that he led it well and those who are curious to know what youngster Connie has to stop the Giants, now have the answer. And Bush is only on a par with Brown and Shawkey.

It's a good fault if your shoes are too large.

LOCAL BOYS SHOW WELL IN "SCRIM"

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 10.—The last scrimmage before the Marquette game was held yesterday afternoon at Camp Randall. The work of the varsity showed great improvement over Wednesday's work, when they scored three times to the scrub's once. Cummings, Welmar, Alexander and Tormey held down the half-back places, and all performed well. Stavrum played at end and showed up well. Buck was back in the line-up, having removed all doubt as to his eligibility. Gelein is still out making up work. Ambler was shifted to the second squad for a while, and big Kennedy, who played a great game at center against Lawrence when he went in for Powell, was given a chance at guard. Kennedy may get into the game Saturday. Despite reports that Wisconsin expects an easy time on Saturday, the coaches have been working hard to perfect the machine. If the bad weather continues through the end of the week, the fast backfield of the Badgers will be seriously handicapped by the heavy field.

Seems That Way. "There are some bodies of water they call bights, are there not?"

"Yes." "Then I should think the bights were the most appropriate places for the barks."—Baltimore American.

Just a Reminder. Jack—And after we are married, darling, the love lights will still linger to your eyes.

Maud—Yes, but the love lights won't keep the gas bills from coming.—Pittsburgh Press.

The fool man who is always asking for advice should be advised to keep his mouth shut.

COOMBS SUFFERS AS GAME IS LOST

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 10.—"It was awful." That's the way Jack Coombs, beloved "Ironman" pitcher of the Athletics, described the game of Wednesday. It was detailed to him on his sick bed in the hospital, by telephone, by Earl Mack, son of the Philadelphia's manager. "All through the game I lay here," said Coombs, "weights at my head and feet, holding me immovable, and a telephone receiver strapped to my head. The game took more out of me than if I had been playing myself. I saw the crowds and Connie sitting on the bench, and I wished I was with them. But I was helpless."

"When Earl said: 'There goes the game; Matty just singled to left.' I don't know what I said. I tried to smile at my wife, who sat beside me, but I guess it was a sick smile."

"Why did we lose? Because Matty held steady as a clock. He pitched ball that couldn't lose. Plank was the star for our boys. We all feel proud of him."

One Service Barred. A famous London barrister was upon one occasion called upon to defend a cook tried for murder, being accused of having poisoned his master. The barrister after a most able and brilliant defense of the culprit secured an acquittal. The cook, anxious to show his gratitude, said, "Tell me, sir, whatever can I do for you to reward you?" The triumphant counsel answered, "My good man, do anything you can, but for the love of heaven don't ever cook for me!"

Lacked Something. "You Germans have no sense of humor," said an American to a German friend.

"Try me and see," said the German. "Well," said the American, "you know America is the home of very large things—the highest mountains, the greatest waterfalls!"

"Oh, yes, yes, yes," said the German. "And our trees," continued the American, "are so tall that in order to see to the top of them one man looks as far up as he can, and another man begins where the first man leaves off and looks up to the top."

"But dat vass no joke; dat vass a lie."

Mapmaking. The earliest maps of which we have any knowledge were made in Egypt. They were wooden tablets, on which were traced land and sea, roads, rivers, highways, etc. Marinus of Tyre, 150 A. D., was the first to attempt a map on scientific principles. The maps in use by the Greeks and Romans were fairly accurate, so far as they went, but those in use during the middle ages were alarmingly inaccurate. It is only within recent years, say since the middle of the last century, that it was possible to make a complete and reliable map of the world, and even yet the best map is subject to slight changes.—New York American.

EFFORT.

If any misanthrope were to put in my presence the question, "Why were we born?"—I should reply, "To make an effort."—Dickens.

CUBS DOWN SOX IN SECOND GAME

Battle Ends 6 to 5 After 13
Innings of Ragged Playing by Both Teams

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—In a thrilling thirteen inning battle the Chicago Nationals made the standing in the Chicago championship series 1 and 1 Thursday afternoon, downing the American leaguers, 6 to 5, before 29,368 persons. The victory of the Cubs was due mainly to the coolness of Big Tom Vaughn, who refused to give before the vigorous attack of the south siders.

The game was a ragged one. Though Cicotte was hammered hard he might have lasted if poor playing back of him had not been bunched in the fourth round—a disastrous inning for the White Sox. In that inning Chappelle, whose timely hit in the eighth pused Chase over with the tying run, let loose a wild throw that struck the grandstand; Schalk muffed a throw from Lord that let in a run, and Bodie, later dealing an opportune single, misjudged Archer's short fly so badly that two runs counted on the hit and the Cub catcher drew up at second. Singles by Evers and Schulte and a safe bunt by Zimmerman had opened the inning which ended only after the west siders had scored four runs.

Benz succeeded Cicotte in the fifth after Leach's safe drive, a pass to Evers and Schulte's hit scored the first named, and after that pitched a great game until the thirteenth. Then Zimmerman singled, Saier walked, Good flied out and Bridwell was passed. With the bases full Archer shot a drive into left and Zimmerman counted the winning run, Saier being caught at the plate on the throw in.

The Sox bunched six hits in the fourth for three runs. Evers' fumble gave Bodie a life in the sixth and Collins' hit and two infield outs gave the American leaguers their fourth run. They tied the score in the eighth. Chase opened the round with a single and Bodie laid down a perfect sacrifice. Collins' fly to Leach was too short to help, but Chappelle drove out his needed hit and Chase crossed the plate.

Deceitful. "Men are queer animals," said the pessimist. "They are all more or less deceitful."

"Oh, I don't believe that," replied the optimist. "I think there are plenty of people who strive to be honest. I know I do, and I don't give myself credit for being any better than the majority of men."

"Then why do you ask me how my health is every time we meet and stand around and look bored if I tell you?"—Exchange.

The Difference. Harry—Do you know the difference between capital and labor? Jack—No. Harry—Well, if I loaned you 25 cents that would be capital, and if I tried to get it back that would be labor.—Exchange.

Good Terms. "I'm sure we shall be on good terms," said the man who had just moved into the neighborhood of the grocer. "No doubt of it, sir, especially," he added as an afterthought, "as the terms are cash."—London Telegraph.

Why do so many people say you know when you don't know? Many a husband is expected to do a fancy job of carpentering with a 10 cent saw, a 10 cent hammer and a 5 cent screwdriver.

CARDS TAKE FIRST FROM THE BROWNS

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 10.—The Cardinals took the first game of the city series from the Browns yesterday, 1 to 0, the only run during the game being scored in the second round when Whitted walked, went to third on Wellman's wild throw and O'Leary's crack and tallied when Wingo hit into a double play, which retired O'Leary. Wellman and Saltee pitched great ball. Score: R H E Cardinals . . . 010000000—1 1 0 Browns . . . 000000000—0 4 1 Batteries: Saltee and Wingo; Wellman and Agnew.

Boiling Eggs. Often when boiling eggs the white comes through the shell and spoils the taste of the egg through its appearance. This may be prevented if a teaspoonful of salt is put into the water before boiling.

His Only Chance. "Why did you shake your fist at the speaker?" "Well," replied the congressman, "I didn't want the whole session to slip by without my having made a motion of some kind."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Tactful. Charming Hostess to dyspeptic guest who has been refusing dish after dish: "I am so distressed. You've had no dinner at all. Guest—Thank you, but I have to be very particular about my food.—London Punch.

"Like cures like," quoted the wise guy. "That's right," agreed the simple mug. "Take love, for instance. It's both an intoxicant and a soberer up."

"Wallie" Schang, the Brilliant Kid Catcher of the Champion Athletics, Sliding Into Third on His Triple Hit, Which Scored Two Runs

Schang, Connie Mack's sensational young backstop, faced a trying situation in the fourth inning of the first game of the present world's series when he came to bat with the score a tie, two men down, and Barry and Strunk on the paths. The youngster proved equal to the situation, and rebounded with a long triple over the center fielder's head, scoring both runners and giving the Athletics the lead. The picture shows him sliding into third, and hooking the bag with his peculiar position of his body. The is the veteran, Harry Davis, Herzog, the Giant third sacker, is over him with the ball.

THE GUYS WHO HIT THEM ON THE NOSE

And Slam 'em High and Wide; Again Had On Their Hitting Clothes

AND "BIG JEFF" TESREAU DIED

While Mr. Bush with Mien Sedate Drove the Giants from the Plate

BY BERTON BRALEY

(Copyright, 1913, by United Press.) PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 10.—Oh, Thursday was a Jonah day for the New York community—the Mackmen slugged away at every opportunity; whatever Tesreau threw they'd swat with heaviest artillery; they made that pitcher feel a lot like some one in a pillory. They hit his high balls and his low with vim and great facility, they landed on the fast and slow with deadly sure ability and John McGraw sat glumly back with visage most lugubrious, while wise and canny Connie Mack was looking quite salubrious. As well he might—for wouldn't you—if you were winning 8 to 2?

Who did it? Let's see—there were Collins and Baker and Oldring and Barry and Murphy and Strunk; Schang, Bush and McInnes—why every old Quaker was there with the goods in a mighty chunk! The next hero? The star? The supreme luminary, that shone in the sky with the dizziest gleam? Well, this is the way I would answer THAT query—"The star of the game was the whole blooming team!" When in the seventh, Baker's clout brought Collins safely home, McGraw took Mister Tesreau out while softly felt the gloam—he passed like "glory that was Greece and grandeur that was Rome."

Too Much for Pitchers. Otis Crandall took his place but still that slugging gang swatted that globe on its face and hit it with a bang, and presently a clean home run was credited to Schang. Twelve whizzing hits the Mackmen made, twelve bingles clean and true, there was no pitching skill displayed could stop this lusty crew; the ball was walloped, slammed and flayed with vigor ever new!

It may be Matty could have halted this furious attack, it may be that with skill exalted, Big Six could hurl them back—but "them Athletics" calm, reliant, just laughed at any other Giant.

Right here's where we pause, in the midst of our toil, to slip a bouquet to the brave Mr. Doyle. He played like a fiend from beginning to end, and worthy enough are his deeds to be penned. Of praise and of glory we give him his meed, for old Larry Doyle is a Giant indeed. He fielded like lightning and managed to push a nice little hit past our friend, Mr. Bush.

This here now, young Mr. Bush, is a feller, believe me; is a No. 1! I ain't seen much pitching that's sweller than some that young ball pitcher done; you could think he might have been in a flurry—but flurries is nix with that boy, he stands there and grins, "I should worry!"—and then slams it over—O! yoy! You think you should catch him in slumber—that feller, he's always awake, he's cool like a pickled cucumber, he's wise, don't you make no mistake! "Mack's pitching staff's weakened and slender," I reads in my sports magazine. There's no one but Plank and Chief Bender—no pitchers? "Say, whadda ya mean?" But, when you take it "all in all" and "by large" and far and near, however great and grand you call the lad who twirls the little sphere, it isn't he whom they cheer, however perfect be his throws—THIS is the boy to rooters dare, THE GUY WHO SLAMS IT ON THE NOSE!

The heroes rise and heroes fall and sometimes last for year on year, nor is his meed of glory small; the lad who twirls the little sphere; but, who puts heart strings out of gear and brings the rooters to their toes, and drives the crowd to madness, sheer? THE GUY WHO SLAMS IT ON THE NOSE!

These pitchers' battles quickly pall, however wondrous they appear, though much we love the pitcher tall—the lad who twirls the little sphere, but, when the crackling we hear, it quite awakes us from our doze and one and all we cheer or fear THE GUY WHO SLAMS IT ON THE NOSE!

We give him honor, quite sincere—the lad who twirls the little sphere. But greater still his glory grows—THE GUY WHO SLAMS IT ON THE NOSE!

And I would point you out that same, as quite the moral of the game.

Respectability Killed Him. There was a hermit in the center of London only a few years ago. His hermitage consisted of a cellar—the sole vestige of a house in Clare market pulled down and forgotten by its owners. He lived there for a long time, supported by scraps of food from the tradesmen of the neighborhood, and might have lived there longer still if a journalist had not "discovered" him. He was interviewed and photographed to death, for the workhouse authorities, nearly next door, who had hitherto turned a blind eye toward him, were compelled to oust him from his hermitage and make him clean and respectable—a process to which he succumbed.—London Mail.

It generally happens that when a fellow goes broke some girl's ideal is shattered.

Thousands of Bleacher Fans Snapped Before Game

The bleacher fans took no chances on missing the first game of the world's series. Two hours before play was called every bleacher seat in the Polo grounds was taken. So great was the congestion that the peanut and score card vendors had a hard time plying their trade.

This picture was taken at 12:25 p. m., an hour and thirty-five minutes before playing time, as can be seen by the clock in the right hand corner. It shows the crowd in the right center bleachers. In the center of the picture is the pennant pole, from which waves the Giant flag, emblematic of the National League championships of 1904-5-11-12, and the world's title of 1905.

HOLD FUNERAL OF CAPITOL SKUNK

Fragrant Animal Who "Sat in Seats of Mighty" Dies by Poisoner's Hand

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 10.—(Special.)—"Sacred to the Memory of Americanus Mephitis Mephitis, who came to an untimely death in the year of Our Lord, 1913, and the sixty-fifth year of Wisconsin statehood, through poison administered by reason of and upon orders of the Honorable William L. Essmann, superintendent of public property. Mr. Mephitis was only a skunk; but he was a considerate and a cautious skunk, who dwelt in high places amid the thrones of the Mighty. Rest in Peace."

This is the inscription which it is proposed to place on a monument to be erected over the grave of an elusive skunk that has kept the janitors of the capitol building in a state of terror for sixty days. Although the presence of the skunk has been known, employees of the $6,000,000

capitol have hesitated to organize hunting parties. They took warning from Webster's dictionary, which says: "The skunk possesses two glands secreting an extremely fetid liquid, which is ejected at pleasure." In a moment of inspiration Supt. Essmann hit upon the plan of poisoning the animal. Shortly thereafter Mr. Mephitis was found in the capitol basement under the ventilating pipes, sleeping the sleep of death.

Summoning four retired preachers in the state's service and arming himself with a spade, Mr. Essmann marched to a secluded spot in the capitol park. The ensuing ceremony was too sad for description. There were no mourners.

"I hope this funeral story will close the skunk episode," said Mr. Essmann seriously. "I have been deluged with letters of suggestion from all parts of the country. The poisoning was simple. I simply applied a compound of cyanogen and arsenic in its highest equivalents, on a piece of canned asparagus. The combination killed him."

PLAIN LANGUAGE IN SULZER ARGUMENT

Judge Parker Scores Governor and Impeachment Court Is Hit by Herrick

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 10.—Plain language used by attorneys for both sides, enlivened the close of the Sulzer impeachment trial today. For the prosecution, Judge Parker bitterly flayed the governor, charging him with hiding behind his wife's skirts and of being morally and mentally unfit to hold office. His contention was upheld in equally strong language by his associate, former Senator Brackett, who denounced Sulzer in the most biting terms.

But they were both sharply answered by Sulzer's chief attorney, D. Cady Herrick. And Herrick, admitting that the court was unfriendly, demanded that its members respect their oaths and decide the case on its merits. Herrick plainly told the members of the court of appeals that their decision would go on trial before the people of the state. If it was not justified, he intimated, the day of the recall of judges and judicial decisions would be hastened.

While a decision has not been reached, it was generally expected that Sulzer's fate would be settled next Monday afternoon.

Chicago Grain Review.
CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—Wheat started with a bearish feeling dominating the trading today. North-west receipts again were light and when covering was started by shorts the market responded with a 5/8 to 3/4 advance in the forenoon.

Corn was under pressure at the outset and a fraction easier. The strength in the wheat pit caused the shorts to cover and prices advanced 3/4 for December and 1/2 for May. Oats was weak at the start, the government crop report being given a bearish interpretation but a 3/4 recovery for each month made up the early loss. The advance was based on the strength of corn and wheat.

Provisions were dull and steady with nothing to cause any price changes.

NEBRASKA AGAIN TORNADO SWEPT

Custer County Struck Yesterday and Much Livestock Is Killed

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 10.—A tornado swept through Custer county in central Nebraska about six o'clock yesterday evening, killing much livestock and demolishing thousands of dollars worth of property. A dozen persons were injured, though none killed, according to reports today.

The twister, the third of any great proportions visiting Nebraska this year, developed near Lodi, razing many buildings in that vicinity, and swept northeastward for fifty miles, having a path from a quarter of a mile to a mile in width. The farmers living in the path of the storm were the greatest sufferers, many barely escaping with their lives.

Heavy property damage was done at Broken Bow and near Sargent. Additional reports today from the tornado swept district show that three persons were killed outright and several others seriously injured. The dead at Chambers, Neb., are:

Walsh, 20 years old; Beckwith, 12 years old; Farwell, six.

Six were seriously injured at Chambers. The ten year old daughter of Will McCaslin, a farmer living near Broken Bow was probably fatally injured when the sod house in which the family were gathered was demolished. McCaslin, his wife and two other children were seriously injured.

PLEAD GUILTY ON PURE FOOD CHARGE

SENATE CHAMBER REARRANGED FOR THE SULZER COURT OF IMPEACHMENT

Many changes were made in the Senate chamber in the Capitol at Albany in preparation for the trial of Governor William Sulzer on charges of "corruption and high crimes and misdemeanors." Since there are only fifty-one senate seats, nine more had to be provided for the members of the court of appeals, who sit with the senate are the court. Then more room was made for counsel for both sides.
